Atavistic Listeners
Business Is Good
Wonderful Corn Belt
Wall Street Forgives

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—
MILLIONS eagerly listened last night for the big fight's beginning. The listeners included some that would not have waited had they seen Moses coming down from the mountain with his message.
It is not fair to condemn intense prize-fight interest as savagery. It is 90 percent atavistic. We are separated by only 12,000 years, a moment in the earth's life, from ancestors whose lives depended every day on fighting ability. Prize-fight interest is the survival of a life struggle.
It may interest you to know, in these stadium dog days of politics and misgovernment, that business goes ahead cheerfully. Many big firms show great profits in "net."
Oil companies are cheerful. If Venezuela can be persuaded to handle her oil wealth wisely all will be serene.
RAILROADS are doing well. The Southern Pacific, excellently managed, made $21,483,134 this year's first six months, $1,857,115 more than last year.
They say—they being the wise ones—that we are to have a savage political campaign. But it is not hurting business.
PROFESSOR SWEENEY of Iowa State college supplies important information about corn.
The corn belt is the earth's "great sponge for absorption and storage of the sun's heat." Heat units are stored in chemical compounds and could be released. But they go to waste.
HEAT and power wasted in farm products, equivalent to hundreds of millions of tons every year, could be saved. One billion tons of raw stuffs, wasted every year, are equal to twice our tonnage of soft coal.
THE great crowds should live in the corn belt, use the power and food products there, instead of crowding, uneconomically, in big cities on the shore, says the professor.
Already, 30,000 different uses are made of cereal products.
MEN will find a way to take the sun's heat direct, without farming to get it or storing it in vegetable ground. That will not come immediately. It would make us all too rich and lazy and we'd stop working.
WALL STREET forgets Bryan and forgives the Democratic party. A big Democratic banner swings in the Wall Street breeze. And W. H. Wood, president of American Car & Foundry, and American Locomotive, and prominent in other great corporations, comes out for Governor Smith.
LIKE Mr. Barkob of General Motors, Mr. Woodin had been a member of the Republican Union League Club, and a Republican in politics.
Republicans will realize that they have a fight on their hands as time passes.
A WISE decision by Postmaster General Noon reduces air mail charges to five cents for the first ounce. Above that weight the price is 10 cents.
This will stimulate air mail use and thus promote aircraft building.
Business men should send circulars in air mail envelopes. Every one thus sent will be opened and read. That does not happen to all.
PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, visiting iron fields in northern Minnesota, will see something more important than iron mines in Minnesota's magnificent public schools.
THE open pit iron mines near Hibbing are marvelous proofs of the Creator's generosity. But the open pits of children are ten million times more important, and Minnesota knows it.
WILL peace ladies and gentlemen kindly consider China and Japan? China's population is more than six times that of Japan; but wealth and territory infinitely greater than Japan's. As fighters, thinkers, in bravery and intelligence Chinese equal Japanese.
But China lives in dread of Japan, and at Japan's mercy. BECAUSE CHINA IS NEVER PREPARED.
THIS big, rich, peace-loving country could easily give a good imitation of China. Croesus showed his pile of gold to Solon, the wise man, and Solon said something that ought to be posted across the walls of the Senate and House and in every room in the White House.
IF ANY ONE COMES HAVING BETTER IRON THAN YOU, HE WILL BE MASTER OF ALL THAT GOLD.

NAB ALLEGED ROBBER AFTER YEAR'S HUNT

Ralph Henry, Sought as One of Farm Theft Gang, Found in Fostoria
HAD JUMPED BOND
Faces Indictment in Marion County Court; Other Men Serving Time
An echo from the Big Island township farm burglaries of more than a year ago rang in the sheriff's office here today when Deputy Vase Ireland returned Ralph Henry, of Marion, to the city.
Henry was arrested more than a year ago as one of the gang of 11 who kept farmers in the western part of the county in an uproar for more than three months. Henry escaped sentence with the others when he jumped his bond shortly after his arrest.
Members of the sheriff's force have been looking for him for more than a year.
Found At Work
Acting on a tip that the fugitive was working in Fostoria, Ireland went there yesterday and found Henry at work in a factory. When Ireland put the handcuffs on Henry in the Fostoria shop it was the second time he had arrested him. Henry is now waiting in the Marion county jail awaiting court action.
According to officials at the sheriff's office the gang working by raiding farmers' livestock, loading their loot into a truck and taking it to the southern part of the state where it was disposed of.
All of the 11 members of the gang, with the exceptions of Henry, drew sentences from the common pleas court here. Two went to the Ohio penitentiary, five went to the Mansfield reformatory and one received a suspended sentence when it was found that he was suffering from tuberculosis. Two others were placed on parole by the court.
Draw Prison Terms
Those sent to Mansfield were Paul Bird, John Kirtz, Hershel Shafer, James Henry, Clyde Rogers, Lester Bird drew a three-year sentence in the penitentiary. W. C. "Shorty" Longfellow went to the penitentiary for five years.
Ed Shafer and Cecil Holcomb were placed on parole by the court. Orville Gibson received a suspended sentence to the Mansfield reformatory.
Sheriff Deal and his force worked on the case for more than three months. An indictment charging Henry with burglary of livestock valued at $145 from James Guthrie, Big Island township farmer, was returned by the September grand jury last year.

TUNNEY PROVES REAL CHAMP; HEENEY OUT AFTER TENTH ROUND

Challenger Proves Courageous Fighter, but No Match for Gene
HAD ONE CHANCE
Failed To "Follow Up" in Third Round and Lost Opportunity
BY DAVID J. WALSH
Star Staff Correspondent
New York, July 27.—I have fought the good fight; I have kept the faith," sang Heeney in his stirring lay and, if he had it to do all over again today, he probably would have centered his lyrical attention upon Gene Tunney's successful defense of his heavyweight championship at the Yankee stadium last night.
"His head was bloody but unbowed!" Another Heeney masterpiece of graceful rhythm. And just as though the poet had had a reporter's eye cocked knowingly over the edge of the ring, his eulogy to the indomitable told the story in full of Tom Heeney's courageous but inevitable collapse in the eleventh round.
Battered to the floor at the end of the tenth, he lay outside the ropes, unable to rise.
RICKARD REPORTS LOSS OF $155,719
New York, July 27.—Tex Rickard, promoter of the Tunney-Heeney heavyweight championship fight last night, according to a detailed report issued today from Madison Square Garden, the figures, tabulated by 42 men in an overnight checkup of returns, showed the total intake to have been $801,014.50 and the net receipts to have been $321,422.23.
healing, a bloody wreck. Picked up by his seconds and toilet, feet drooping, to his corner, he was laved and swathed and slipped and badgered into a sense of consciousness between rounds. Then the bell and he was sent forth again this time to die the figurative death of the ring fighter who, knowing that he must lose, chooses to do it as a game man should and must.
Tunney Head Champion
Tom Heeney died the figurative death of a technical knockout last night. But today they can't say that he didn't die with his boots on nor that the feet he held weren't flush with the floor, holding him gallantly erect at the end.
What, meantime, of the man who fought the good fight, who kept the faith? Gene Tunney did both. No longer may they call him the "Champion of Jack Dempsey." No longer is it possible to question his right to sit upon the throne of all boxing and rule his subjects as might become his monarchical fancy. Tunney was every inch a champion.

Gene Tunney Up Early and Hurries Home to See His Mother; In Fine Condition

Champion Has Breakfast with Former Governor Cox of Ohio; Title-Holder Sure To Get His Full Share of Gate Receipts
New York, July 27.—Gene Tunney—winner and still champion—was up with the lark today.
Feeling fine, apparently untouched in his 11-round scuffle with Tom Heeney, the Ajax challenger, Gene awoke at 7:30 a. m. for breakfast with a few intimates and then a morning at home with his mother, Mrs. Mary Tunney, in Scarborough.
Whatever the luck of Tex Rickard in luring the elusive customer through the gate, Gene was not worried about his share. The Madison Square Garden corporation took one on the chin as far as the gate went, but the champion will get his guarantee of $325,000, regardless. The check will go first to the boxing commission, then to Tunney. He signed his own contract and no deputy will handle the check for him first.
With a nap in the plane enroute from Speculator and another in the afternoon before the fight, Tunney needed little rest last night. He considered four hours enough.
"Feeling fine," he declared, when he bounced from bed.
He had breakfast with former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, and was off for a quiet morning at home with his mother.
REPUBLICANS NOT TO FINANCE DRY GROUPS
Many Professional Organizers Reported Ready To Descend on C. O. P.
Washington, July 27.—The Republican National Committee will not finance the multitudinous new "dry" organizations already springing up over the country for action in the presidential campaign.
This was made clear by officials of the national organization who today were engaged in completing the loose ends of their estimates upon which National Chairman Work and Treasurer Nutt will definitely fix a budget.
Reports have reached Washington that many professional "dry" organizers whose scope of activities has been outside of the regular channels of the Anti-Saloon League were preparing to descend upon the city with an urgent plea for funds.
Among the most prominently mentioned of these many organizations are the Anti-Smith Democrats which emanated from the recent conference of southern "drys" at Asheville. Unless there is a change of heart on the part of campaign leaders it is unlikely that any of these organizations will be permitted to dig into the millions raised for the national campaign.
WINS MATCH
Pair Sentenced on Embezzlement Charges Will Be Freed Aug. 15
Columbus, July 27.—William H. Chatfield and George Beazell, both of Cincinnati, convicted in the Ohio State penitentiary and alleged promoters of a million dollar stock swindle at the Queen City, today were ordered paroled by the state board of clemency at the July meeting. They will be released Aug. 15, the board announced.
The men were sentenced on embezzlement charges for terms of 9-30 years each and were admitted to the penitentiary Jan. 8, 1928.
David Wins, former president of a building and loan association at Cincinnati, who was also sentenced for embezzlement was also ordered paroled. The parole is to take effect Aug. 15. Wins was sentenced by the Ohio state court to a term of 9-30 years for embezzlement from the same building and loan association.
CHATFIELD, BEAZELL ORDERED PAROLED
Pair Sentenced on Embezzlement Charges Will Be Freed Aug. 15
Columbus, July 27.—That Orval Dougherty, deputy sub-director head of the Harding Valley road building project in the United States of America in China, was sentenced here today to the Ohio state penitentiary for a term of 9-30 years for embezzlement from the same building and loan association.
TILDEN WINS MATCH WITH RENE LACOSTE
Victory One of Greatest in Career on French Courts
Roland Garros Stadium, Paris, July 27.—Bill Tilden, America's ace of tennis, scored one of the greatest victories of his career on the green today in winning the first singles match of the Davis cup challenge round from his arch-rival, Rene Lacoste, of France, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 and 6-2, but in the second singles Johnny Hammond, an amateur Irish lad from Southampton, upset the victory of Tilden by beating Coach's favored strikings. The score was 7-5, 6-4, 6-5 and 6-3.
This last match was a great off to victory of the challenger, Bill Tilden's defeat.

NEW PROPOSAL CONSIDERED IN AIRPORT PLAN

Move To Make Landing Field Joint City, County Project Now Under Way
ARRANGE MEETING
County Commissioners Agree To Attend Conference for Next Wednesday
Proposals to make the drive for an airport here a joint city and county movement have been made by buckets of the project as the latest development in the campaign which has been conducted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations during the last several months.
While members of the board of county commissioners have not committed themselves on any attitude toward the proposal, they have agreed to meet with representatives of other organizations backing the movement.
The date for the meeting has been tentatively set for next Wednesday.
Interim plans for making the project a joint city-county movement have not been renounced.
First announcement of the proposal to enlist the assistance of the county commissioners was made yesterday afternoon following a meeting of members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, representatives of city council and Marion manufacturers.
HEAT OVERCOMES PEDESTRIAN HERE
Buffalo Man Found Near Marion Cemetery and Taken to Hospital
Another victim was added to Ohio's heat wave toll yesterday, when James Edward Wheelock, 52, of Buffalo, N. Y., was found overcome by the sun's rays at the entrance of the Marion cemetery.
Wheelock is said to have planned going to City hospital for relief and was nearing his destination when overcome with heat. He was walking with crutches, his legs having been covered above the knees several years ago.
The heat victim, removed to City hospital in the W. C. Boyd ambulance, was expected to be released this afternoon.
W. T. Jones, state examiner is reported to be ill at his home in Columbus, following a light stroke of apoplexy suffered while working at the Marion County courthouse several days ago. His stroke is believed to have been partly due to the heat.
In spite of the showers occurring late yesterday afternoon and last night, mercury of Marion thermometers continued to hold steady around the 80-degree mark. During the night the mercury fell to 67 degrees, which is reported to be one of the highest night temperatures recorded this summer.
At noon today the government thermometer here registered 83 degrees, the same point that was reached at the same hour the last two days.
"Slightly cooler" was forecast in the weather prediction for tonight with fair atmospheric conditions prevailing.

WELCOME FOR HOOVER GIVEN BY HOME STATE

Stanford University, Cal., July 27.—Alvin Hoover, son of the Republican nominee for president, hopes to be an aviator. After taking a ride over his home in a giant three-motored Ford plane, young Hoover told his college companions today that he was planning to go to an aviation school. It was not his first time in the air but it was the first time he ever flew over his home.

WELCOME FOR HOOVER GIVEN BY HOME STATE
Stanford University, Cal., July 27.—The golden west held a belated welcome home celebration today for Herbert Hoover, the first Californian ever nominated for the presidency.
A dozen west coast cities, led by San Francisco, decorated their streets, hired bands and prepared to pay tribute to the state's new "favorite son."
The celebration was to start in San Francisco at 11 a. m. and continue throughout the day, until Hoover got back to his home town about dusk.
The Republican nominee will go to San Francisco on a morning train to participate in a parade through the streets of that city and in a reception at the city hall. Then he will lead a motor caravan down the coast, with stops scheduled at Daly City, San Bruno, Burlingame, Menlo Park, San Carlos, and Redwood City. The old home town Palo Alto will complete the circle of greetings.
Left City To Make Mark
On his motor tour, Hoover will visit the scenes of his youth and school days. He will travel the same highways as he turned to page 8.

NEW CHINESE TARIFF TREATY SIGNED BY U. S.

Annuls All Existing Pacts and Sets Up Complete Autonomy
LIKIN TAX ABANDONED
Marks First Step of Any Pacts Leading Toward Abolition of Agreements
Washington, July 27.—A treaty annulling existing tariff treaties between the United States and China, and substituting complete tariff autonomy for China was signed in Peking on July 26 by American Minister J. V. A. M. Murray and T. V. Hoang, minister of finance of the Chinese Nationalist government, the state department announced today.
The Likin tax, now in effect, was abandoned under the terms of the treaty. The provisions of the treaty become effective Jan. 1, 1929. All negotiations are exchanged by that date, or four months subsequent to such change after that date.
The Likin tax is an internal tax collected in the various provinces. It has been a bone of contention between foreign business interests and the Chinese.
The treaty consisted of two articles and in it the Nationalist government was described as the "Nationalist government of the republic of China." Except for the technical details of diplomatic usage America accords no real de jure recognition to the Nationalist government.
Article one declares:
All previous treaties which appear to treat the United States of America and China relating to rates of duty on imports of merchandise, drawback, transit duty and tonnage dues in China shall be annulled and become null and void, and the principle of complete national tariff autonomy shall apply to each of the high contracting parties shall enjoy in the territories of the other with respect to the above matters and any related matters treatment in no way discriminatory as compared to the treatment accorded to any other country.
The methods of number of high contracting parties shall be applied under any present agreement to any within the territories of the other party any duties, internal charges or taxes upon their imports and exports or other or higher than those paid by nationals of the country or by nationals of any other country.
Article two provides that the treaty, done in both English and Chinese texts, shall be interpreted in the event of there being a difference of meaning between the two texts. Article two also provides that ratification shall be in accordance with the respective constitutional methods of the two countries.
The treaty marks the first step by any of the powers looking toward abolition of the so-called unequal treaties. It is regarded as a forerunner of official recognition of the Nationalist government by the United States. America's action may cause the other powers to fall into line by a conference on general treaty revision.
No mention was made in the treaty of extraterritorial rights enjoyed by China by the powers. Revision of the treaties has also been demanded by the Nationalist government.

Meditations of a Married Woman. BY HELEN HOWLAND. ON MUMMERS—AND OTHER ACQUAINTANCES. Many a beautiful mummified creature has ended in a sigh of relief instead of ecstasy—because it is lasted just an hour too long.

When a modern woman has learned how to operate a vacuum-cleaner, a percolator, an electric sewing machine, a can-opener, a cocktail shaker and a motor car, she may not be an ideal housewife, but she is certainly an expert mechanic.

There is nothing like a diet of potatoes, parsnips and pears de terre d'O'Brien to make you sigh for an honest baked potato—and nothing like an unexpurgated view of other women's husbands at a houseparty to make you appreciate the plain husband you left behind in the city.

You can't judge a husband's love by the way he kisses his wife three days, but you can by the way he refrains from kissing other men's wives.

Lots of men who seem irresistibly fascinating against the glittering background of a fashionable summer resort, would bore you to death in one hour, rainy day around a city apartment.

The man who goes through life without marrying assumes a lot of annoyance and expense, but then the man who goes through life baldheaded never has to worry about falling hair or to spend his money on haircuts and tonics.

A ROMANCE OF GRIPPING HUMAN INTEREST

BY WINIFRED VAN DYKE

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

It was late afternoon and three little girls were sitting along Main street, their heads bowed, their hands clasped, their eyes fixed on the ground. They were waiting for their mother to come home. The girls were dressed in their best, their hair was pulled up in curls, and their faces were pale with anxiety. The mother had been out for a long time, and the girls were getting worried. They had been told that their mother would be home by five o'clock, but now it was nearly seven and she had not appeared. The girls looked at each other and then at their watches. The watches showed that it was five minutes past seven. The girls were silent, their faces pale, their hands clasped. They were waiting for their mother to come home.

A girl with hair like curling flame, eyes like the sea, and a face like a flower, she was the most beautiful girl in the town. She was the daughter of a wealthy family, and she was loved by all who knew her. She was the girl who had won the heart of the boy who was now her husband. They were married a long time, and they had a beautiful home. The girl was the most beautiful girl in the town, and she was loved by all who knew her. Answers to the solutions to yesterday's puzzle.

They faced about and three heads, the black, the brown, the red, drew together. The "black" was coming into the front of the store; he was pausing at the counter sending a questioning look around.

"Well, of all the nerve—" "Gosh, he's a good-looking. I like 'em dark and thin. Spose he's a Nervy Class, I guess!"

Kitten, who said nothing, was the one his glance picked out. He half smiled, snatched off his cap and came forward with a show of diffidence.

"Haven't I met you somewhere?" he asked softly, eyes on the flaming hair. "Seems I remember that mop."

"What if you have?" Kitten was very cool.

"Why then," he said, laughing, "I'd ask if you didn't want to go for a little ride around. Fair enough, isn't it?"

Dottie and Flossie squealed; Kitten's pose wasn't proof against the prospect of the big car. She flushed and stammered and he paid their bill as the four of them went rather awkwardly into the street.

Kitten rode beside him in front. Her friends kept up a chatter in the rear, waving a who-meever they knew. But she had little to say.

Continually, however, she saw him watching her in the mirror above the windshield; once he reached over, but she snatched her hand away.

He drove out of Lyall and back into the country; before a low-lying and extremely ornate building set in the midst of a pretentious lawn he halted the car. This was Deep Valley Inn, a roadside noted for a set of fast-moving and high-stepping patrons.

"Want to drop in?" he asked, watching her face.

Shrieks of "Oh let's!" from the back seat and doors being torn open. Kitten looked at the inn, felt a little thrill of longing, another of caution. The last was stronger.

"How about it Red-head?" "Not today, Mr. Norris."

"Say it ain't Norris; it's Lanier and the handle's Ted. Going to remember that till tomorrow when I see you again?"

"Who says so?" "Your new boy-friend, Reddy."

"Any ole time—" But she did promise to meet him. Not the next day but the one after she said, when the other girls had gone and they were saying good-night a block away from home.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Humorous Boyhood Adventure

By JUDD MORTIMER LEWIS

TODAY was Friday and it was just hot enough and just cold enough, and when I was letting Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth I was singing so loud that a man and a lady going past stopped and looked between the houses and saw what I was doing and laughed out loud and the lady threw me a kiss, and I let go of the rope to throw her one back, but Jubilee was so near that he didn't bump his head so very hard. Then I put on my short britches and went down to get the pail and milk the cow and my uncle hollered and asked me what was the matter that I was howling so, and I told him I was singing, and he said I must be singing jazz then.

My family is not musical. I told them at the breakfast table that they didn't have any ears for music, and my uncle told me I didn't have any voice for music, and when I got up from the table to go out and go with the bunch to the pasture Annabelle Lee had been under the table and crawled out just in time for me to fall over her and bump my nose on the edge of my mother's chair and make it bleed, so the bunch had to wait while I put some brown paper with vinegar on it under my upper lip and a cold key on my forehead and a piece of ice on the back of my neck. Then it stopped, and we were playing ball over at the vacant lot when Youniss said, "Past!"

There was my aunt at the corner of the lot hollering at me, and I said "what" and she said it over again, and I couldn't hear what it was, so I started to run toward her, and the Lost Rag of Tripe put his hat between my feet and I went on my stummock so hard it knocked the wind out of me, and when I had got up and got to where my aunt was she said she had hollered to call me if I hadn't better take the cows to the pasture, so then I went to chase the Lost Rag of Tripe who had waited to skin out till I got through with my aunt, and I kicked the corner of a brick that was sticking out of the ground and knocked a lot of skin loose from my big toe and had to go home.

My mother wanted to cut the skin off with the scissors, but I hollered and wouldn't let her, and then I jumped on our back fence in my hurry to get to the heel of my other foot, so now I am walking on the heel of one foot and the toe of the other and have got a sore nose. I had to walk so slow going to the pasture that the bunch had been there and went when I got there, and Youniss was the only one that waited for me, so me and her and Jubilee went to her house and built a house with a load of bricks in her back yard, and when we crawled into it Jubilee tried to squeeze in with us and it left a mark.

Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADRIAN GARRISON

Made Is Touched by Marion's Gentle Song

HAD finished dressing and was slipping down the hall in the fear of awakening the members of the household who were not scheduled to take the train, when I met Marion again. She was coming from Mary Harriett's room, and her face was so grave that I wondered if she had found Mary ill. Before I could frame a question, she caught at my arm and put a quick low-voiced query.

"May I come into your room a minute, Auntie Madge? I want to tell you something."

"Of course," I returned, and at once walked back to my room with her. I saw that she found it difficult to phrase readily the thing she wished to tell me, and I tried to help her.

"You look troubled, dear," I told her. "Is there anything the matter with Mary?"

"I don't know," she said. "But something—I can't put my finger on it—makes me feel that she isn't a bit pepped about this trip. And when I asked her what she was going to say she said, 'Not even a handkerchief.' And she said it as if she were terribly blue. I didn't say any more, but I got to thinking, Auntie Madge, how long is it since Mary bought any clothes?"

I looked at her startled.

"You've given me something to think about, Marion," I told her. "I don't believe she's bought anything for months."

"I know she hasn't, and Auntie Madge," she was breath-takingly lovely as she looked at me with face flushed and eyes close to tears. "I feel as if I couldn't go in today and have all those pretty things bought for me with Mary not having anything. Won't you ask mother to cut my budget in you?"

"I'll do it," she said. "But something—I can't put my finger on it—makes me feel that she isn't a bit pepped about this trip. Elephants Are Sensible, Though "Thin-Skinned," Says Veteran Trainer Appearing Here This Week

BY HALLIE HOUCK
ELEPHANTS are "thin-skinned" in the sense that they are very sensitive to the touch and feel both the heat and the cold of the animal world.

This is accurate information, coming from Jack Walsh, for years a trainer of wild animals with the Hill Animal Training corporation.

Three elephants, between the ages of six and seven years, are "reaching" the Grand theater stage the latter half of this week and they really do have a knack of doing things with more poise than is expected of such lumbering animals.

Their small, glittering eyes take in all of the stage with remarkable accuracy and speed and there's never a mixup of cues or jumbling of acts when Anna Mae, Tessie and Jennie are doing their stuff.

Anna Mae, Tessie and Jennie are three Indian elephants, imported a year ago for show purposes. They are now babies now, but will have matured in 35 years to their full size. Their years will number 100 or more years, though, before they are called to the eternal abode of elephants.

These "showing" elephants are very docile, never "acting up" outside of the theater and treating every one with the same genial courtesy. As a rule elephants are inclined to be flighty around automobiles, persons to whom they are unaccustomed, and especially the things that go to make up a good side show, vaudeville act or fair.

Anna Mae takes an almost elfin pleasure, if a baby elephant could derive that form of pleasure, in about the cannon in the patriotic act which Walsh puts on. Most elephants can hardly be induced to go near one of these noisemakers, but Anna Mae pads right up to the cannon and stamps on the release until the cartridge explodes. No ruined shooting acts when Anna Mae's at the helm.

Tessie is just like a big, friendly dog, with a penchant for following people around. But, of course, all of the elephants are chained most of the time, so Tessie must restrain her desires.

Dynamite has been blown off beside this trio and not a motion betrayed their fear if there was any. They have worked at fairs under all kinds of trying conditions for elephants and every time they've showed up their true "troopers" spirit.

Anna Mae, Tessie and Jennie aren't afraid of dogs, either, and dogs are the least of the average elephant's life.

Once in a show in Chesterville the elephants were on parade, with Walsh leading them. Looking back to see the cause of the leader's failure to follow him, Walsh saw it standing foot raised over a dog sleeping in the street. The elephant refused to set its foot down until the dog was moved.

Head Trainers from Overseas
American people are lacking in a knowledge of wild animals, their place of origin and habits. Europeans have a keen knowledge of geographical history, which accounts for the fact that our best animal trainers are from the old country.

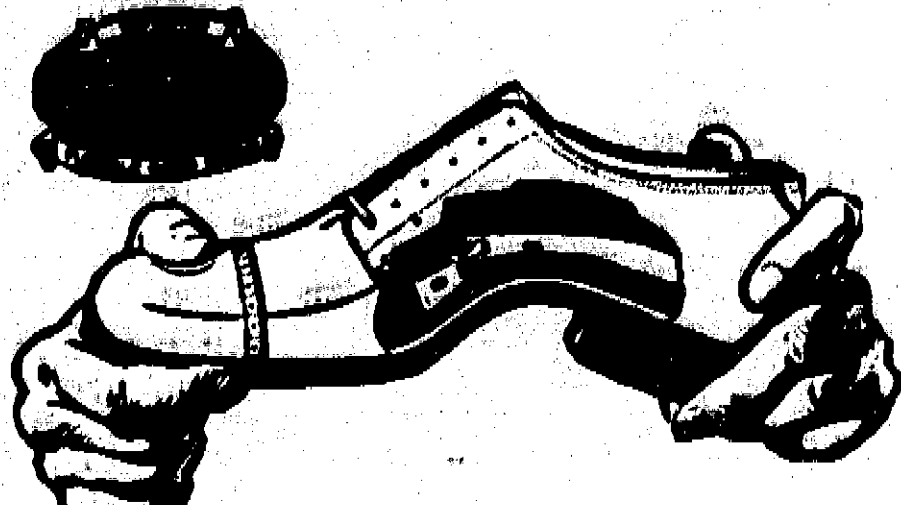

Elephants and any other species of animals will do only those things which it is natural for them to do, Walsh says. It is natural for an elephant to sit up on its hind legs, lie down, and go into other natural poses.

The problem for the trainer to accomplish is to make the elephant or other animal do those things when the command is given. And the secret of animal training is to impress upon the animal the fact that the trainer is master.

Ceylon and Siamese elephants are used for training purposes, as they are the quickest and most adaptable. African elephants do not take to training.

Any old town contains several hundred anecdotes, if somebody would but collect them.

BELIEVE AMERICAN RECOGNITION CERTAIN

U. S. Note Offering To Enter Into Treaty Negotiations Is Hailed

Peking, July 27—America's note offering to enter into treaty negotiations with the victorious Nationalists and pledging American aid to restore Chinese tariff autonomy was regarded by the Nationalists today as virtual assurance of recognition of the Nationalist government by the United States.

America, the Nationalist leaders said, is the first foreign power to award such recognition. The leaders were highly elated over the American offering, which would put the Nationalist administration in a strategic position to negotiate with other nations for revision of treaties.

Japan's diplomatic quarters described the note as "a bolt from the blue."

It was pointed out by diplomatic representatives of the other powers that the proposed American-Chinese treaty would be of no practical value so far as restoration of tariff autonomy is concerned until accepted and ratified by the 10 extra-territorial signatory nations. These are the powers which agreed to foreign regulation of Chinese tariffs and put their agreement into treaty form.

As there are two factions in the Nationalist party the course which the Chinese government may follow is uncertain. The Conservatives probably will favor acceptance of the American offer while the Radical element may oppose it.

FAVORS LAW AIDING IN OIL DEVELOPMENT

American Bar Association Takes Action on Co-Operative Movement

Seattle, Wash., July 27—The American Bar association, now in convention here, today was on record as favoring a proposed federal law which would permit oil companies to develop fields through co-operative enterprise.

Gurney E. Newlin, Los Angeles, who is slated for the presidency of the association next year, led the fight for the bill and obtained its approval by a vote of 275 to 74.

The association steering committee prevented another skirmish over the proposed constitutional amendment requiring a two-year college course as a requisite to practicing law. Oscar C. Hull, Detroit, a member of the executive committee, obtained consent to submit the amendment to a referendum of the association membership.

The report of Edward S. Rogers, Chicago chairman of patent, copyright and trademark law section, proposing that the United States should enter the international copyrighting convention, was not adopted by the convention.

Opposing the report, O. Raymond Bennett, also of Chicago, said the measure would make Americans liable to wholesale prosecutions by Europeans.

The report on amended criminal law by Justin Miller of Los Angeles, after a stormy existence in committee, was accepted without debate by the convention.

With the Candidates

Personal Sketches Provide Information for Voters Regarding Contestants in Marion County Primary

Editor's Note: Candidates entered for the Marion County primary have been listed in the general assembly, in the order in which they were given as candidates. The information obtained will appear in a series of brief summaries published prior to the primary day, Aug. 14.

D. L. Augustine, 48, candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative in the general assembly, is unmarried and lives at Prospect. His occupation is given as machinist and he has been in the past has included farming and school teaching. Was born in Wadsworth township May 13, 1887, and has resided in Marion county.

practically his entire life. Never held public office. He says that he approved the Democratic principles as enunciated in the platform adopted at Houston and that his personal slogan, if elected representative, will be: "Justice for each and all; favors for none."

Marvey W. Sawyer, Marion township farmer, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for county commissioner, long term. He is married and has a family of three children, all of age. Was born in Marion township Feb. 22, 1869 and has been a lifelong resident of Marion county. Served as trustee of Scott township four years, member of the Marion and Green Camp township school boards 15 years and was Marion township land appraiser in the last tax reapportionment. Occupation has always been farming. Is temporarily residing at 318 W. Church st. while his home in Marion township, damaged by fire several weeks ago, is being reconstructed. Says his policy, if elected commissioner, will be: "Give the people a square deal."

Fred W. Higgins, candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff, is 57 years old, married, and lives at 205 Bellevue av. Is an employee of the Marion Lumber Co. Formerly in railway work 11 years and served three years as U. S. marshal. Born in Marion in 1871 and has always lived here. His plans, if elected sheriff, are outlined by him as follows: "Strict enforcement of highway traffic laws; speeding and 'putting' along highways would have to cease. I believe in locking prisoners four to five hours a day to keep the others and old cemetery clean and weeds mowed down around the city."

Charles M. Conley, 55, Democratic candidate for probate judge, lives at 507 Girard av., is married and has two daughters and one son. Occupation is attorney. Served as justice of the peace here 20 years ago. Born here Feb. 1, 1875 and has been a lifelong resident of Marion. Graduate of Marion high school, attended Ohio State University three years, graduated from Cincinnati College of Law in 1897. Says his policy, if elected, will be: "To give equal justice to all and serve the office to the end of my ability."

TRIO ARRESTED

Youth Charged With Tearing Down Turner's Banners

Sandusky, July 27.—City Commissioner G. J. Schade today had sworn out warrants charging three youths with disorderly conduct and malicious destruction of property, in connection with the removal of a "Turner-for-Governor" banner in Columbus av. here several days ago.

The trio, notified to appear in municipal court, admitted having removed the banner, according to police, and offered the explanation that it did not seem to them that the banner had a place here as "This is Jim Begg's home town."

Congressman Bean is opposing Attorney General Edward Turner for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

MARION BUSINESS MAN IN AIR TRIP

Wilfred Schaffner, general manager of the Schaffner Furniture Co., was one of the group pictured above which traveled to Chicago and return by airplane in record time, Wednesday. The group left Toledo in a Stinson monoplane at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning and arrived in Chicago, a distance of 250 miles, in two and one-half hours. While in Chicago the men inspected the Grishy-Majestic radio plant. Schaffner left Marion by rail late Tuesday night for Toledo and returned home early Thursday morning. The local man is seen at the extreme left. Other members of the group, left to right, are R. C. Elwell, W. W. Ballie, Stanley Roberts and George Hoffman, all of Toledo.

NO GREAT WELCOME FOR NOBLE PARTY

Will Face Stern Inquiry from Mussolini on Arrival in Rome

Rome, July 27.—When Gen. Umberto Nobile and his fellow survivors of the Italia disaster arrive here from the Arctic early next week, probably on Tuesday, they will slip into Rome quietly. It will be a homecoming far from their dreams when they set out three months ago.

Instead of the plaudits and medals they had expected they will arrive to face a stern inquiry at the hands of Premier Mussolini to determine if negligence was responsible for the disaster on May 25 when the dirigible was wrecked in a storm between the North Pole and Spitzbergen.

The Noble party is enroute here today from Narvik, Norway, where they landed from the supply ship Clitta Li, Milano to travel the balance of the way by train.

Two members of the expedition are dead and six others are missing.

POLICE OPEN SCHOOL FOR ACCIDENT PREVENTION

Dortmund.—The Dortmund police authorities have equipped a sort of traffic school room in one of the city's police stations, with models, pictures, transparencies, etc., dealing with regulation of traffic and prevention of accidents.

Here not merely the police, but also drivers of autos and citizens in general can familiarize themselves with various rules, the various signs employed, danger points, etc. There are illuminated pictures designed particularly to teach children how to conduct themselves on the street. Similar institutions are planned by the police of other cities.

Every time some man gets a chance they tell of some one who hasn't treated them right.

YEAR'S EDUCATION AT STATE IS $723

Four-Year Course Will Run
$3,000 or More, Revised
Estimate Reveals

Columbus, July 27—For an average student the cost of a four-year college education runs $3,000 or more, a revised estimate made public today at Ohio State university indicates. The estimate was contained in a special pamphlet on "Self-Support and Estimated Cost of a Year's Instruction," just published. It was prepared by Bland L. Stradley, university examiner, to answer questions raised by hundreds of new students coming from the high schools.

For other than professional colleges, the average cost of a year's education here for a man, exclusive of traveling expenses, Stradley estimated, at $723, with a slightly higher figure for women. The amount, he emphasized, varied with the individual according to personal needs and tastes. $150 First Month "The total cost of a year's work of three quarters," the pamphlet pointed out, "will depend largely upon the course pursued. In general, it may be said that the legitimate cost ranges from $700 to $900 per year exclusive of traveling expenses. "Personal expenses vary, of course, with the individual's habits and tastes. The average student will spend $150 the first month, and approximately $50 a month thereafter."

By items, the estimate is made up as follows for men: matriculation fee, paid but once, $10; incidental fee, $40; Ohio Union fee, $5; gymnasium fee, $5; laboratory fee (which vary according to nature of course), $20; deposit on military uniform, $20; books, $50; board for 30 weeks, $252; room rent, $155; general expenses, $150. For student's not from Ohio, there is, in addition, a non-resident fee of $35 per quarter.

Needs $125 Early "In order to meet all the necessary expenses of registration, deposit for uniform, books, and other expenditures incidental to securing room and board," the pamphlet explained, "a student should come prepared to spend from $100 to $125 during the first 10 days of the quarter. After that period board and room rent will constitute the major part of his expense."

The university, it was emphasized, discourages "students from coming to the university without funds" on the ground that "it is very essential that a new student should get a satisfactory start in his studies." The change from high school to the university was described as "a very decided step, and a student should not be hampered by too much outside work, particularly in the first year."

The pamphlet recommended further that a student have at least $250 before coming to the university and that if he planned to help support himself by outside work that he arrange to carry less than a full classroom schedule. The same advice was given to women students.

Streets of Marion

WITH STAR STAFF
QUIET VISITOR
WHEN persons of more than ordinary prominence come into a community and then depart without more than one or two persons being aware of the visit it is a sign that the place is getting to be somewhat of a city.

Marion must be in that class, for it has just become known that General Joseph S. Coxey, candidate for United States senator, was here one Sunday recently without attracting any more attention than an ordinary tourist. The general, listed in the country's hall of fame as the head of "Coxey's army," made no attempt to attract attention while here. This display of modesty and reticence gave him added distinction as being a most unusual candidate for office.

Coxey, according to reports, took dinner at a North Main st. restaurant, steering clear of the more elaborate and costly dining places. He assured the restaurant proprietor that his visit would be appreciated. That, so far as is known, was the extent of his campaigning while in Marion.

ONE OF THE FIRST
CAMPAIN cards are a common sight these days, with candidates for office busily engaged passing them out to voters in all sections of the county. It is estimated that the more than 60 aspirants for public place in Marion county will hand out approximately 100,000 cards before primary day is over, Aug. 14.

In the earlier years of campaigning in this locality, printed cards were not used. The population was compartively small and those in quest of votes did their soliciting through personal visitations. The average candidate was known personally to most of the voters and consequently needed no printed advertising.

Milton Morral, who lives on Superior st., is said to be one of the first Marion county candidates to adopt use of campaign cards. That was in 1895, when he was in the race for county commissioner. He has one of those historic bits of pasteboard still in his possession. Mr. Morral, who was successful in his campaign for commissioner, was at that time a resident of Laflin.

A man who is a friend only to himself has but few friends.

ONE ADJUSTMENT LEFT
One possible adjustment of the car-buretor is left today's car owner. It is the idler screw in most cases and, happily, it is one that he ordinarily will not have to bother about. Since carburetors have become finer devices in which the nicest of balances are necessary to effect performance, all unnecessary adjustments by the car owner, it should be mentioned that the carburetor is not blamed for many of the things that are immediately ascribed to it by car owners.

HOLDS OUT TILL LAST
"Down Under" Practically Out
When Referee Calls
Fight

By FRANK G. MENKE
Yonkers Stadium, New York, July 27.—The aftermath of the big battle last night seemed all tangled up on the question: what happened to Tom Tunney's eye in the eighth round? It was all so sudden—the gladiators leaped toward each other. Up to that moment had been a slashing savage jabbering with honks slightly in favor of Heenev, although the champion seemed to be firing a bit with the pace that he had established from the beginning of things. There was a bit of fiddling, a half clinch, and then all of sudden Heenev backed away and with a gesture of helplessness, lifted a glove toward his left eye.

It was a gruesome sight, completely blind, but turned in and Heenev seemed a frightened man. He half lifted a glove to try to dry out the underburned eye and then Tunney, realizing that Heenev had suddenly been blinded in the eighth round, stepped forward and with a quick knock-out in the closing seconds of the eighth.

As Heenev went staggering back to his corner after the eighth his handkerchief yelped to the news men, "He jabbed his thumb in Tom's eye," and then pointed to Tunney.

Perhaps Accidental
After the fight they reported their words with, "Tunney jabbed a thumb in Tom's eye. But it perhaps was accidental." The Tunney seconds significantly denied that Tunney had jabbed his thumb into Heenev's eye. Until injury came to Heenev's eye in the eighth it was considerable of a battle. Tunney went into the eighth leading by a small margin on points. He seemed to be firing a bit better than the pace that the plugging Heenev set, while Tom was still traveling steadily, irresolutely.

Tunney stepped out in the first apparently resolved to knock Heenev from his intellect in a hurry, almost scoring the use of his left hand. He used his hand and rattled it in Heenev's chin with monstrous brutality.

Tom Got's Best
That Tom took all that Gene thrust upon his rugged countenance, grunted, and in made Gene retreat with considerable reluctance, was a feat of short legs and right.

General thing in the first four rounds Heenev's shots upon Tunney around and over to seem to stagger him, but was in the fourth. Very promptly, however, Tunney decided against being staggered and started out in the fifth, snapping Tom's nose with left and putting him with rights only when he wasn't much danger of a Heenev return.

For the first seven rounds it was a fight, one that brought saloon of applause from the multitude. The champion had really come from behind in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh, and all added to the front. But Heenev's work was tremendously better than any had expected; perhaps even a surprise to Tunney. And many figured that a great finish might win for him, and then came the eighth that was made for Heenev, the accident to his eye that sounded the knell of his championship hopes.

But Tunney slipped into Heenev.

Tunney, Heenev Scrap in Detail

Round One
Tunney backed into a corner and clipped Heenev with a right and Heenev came back with a right and was cautioned by the referee. They both clinched and clinched. Tunney again landed a right to the chin, Heenev countering with a right to the body. The champion landed to the jaw and took a left to the head. Once more Tunney led with a right to both Heenev's chin. Tom was wild with a right and they clinched each other. A left and right and Heenev on the jaw and right and a left to the body that did the champion no good. Heenev missed a right lead, Heenev landed to the head with a Tunney poke to the left to the body and took a left and right to the jaw. Tunney landed a stinging right on Heenev's chin and followed with a left to the same spot. He also poked two lefts to the jaw and they exchanged rights to the jaw and Heenev came through with another which only caused Gene to reply with another hard right. Round even.

Round Two
Tunney came out slowly, Tom was wild with a left and right and both led rights into a clinch. They fiddled again and exchanged rights and lefts to the head. Tunney was short with a left to the body and Heenev countered with a hard right to the body. Tunney sent a left to the stomach and Heenev landed a left on the shoulder. They exchanged lefts to the body and head then exchanged right hands to the head, Tunney being the cleaner. Tunney poked two lefts to Heenev's face. Gene also clipped Heenev with a right to the chin, the challenger coming back with a right to the top of the head. Heenev was wild with a left lead and Tunney was wild with a left lead and took a right lead and a right lead but took a left to the head in close. In a wild rally Tunney scored to the chin but Heenev came back to the head driving Tunney off balance. Tunney got over a right to the head as the bell rang. Round even.

Round Three

dangling with both hands, driving the near helpless Heenev around the ring. Tom came out for the ninth, tried to fight back but took another savage beating. And in the tenth it was little short of slaughter.

Heenev, almost unable to see, staggered around the ring trying to grope his way out of the fury of Tunney's fire, but in vain. Just as the bell rang he toppled and went down. He was dead cold out on the floor. His frantic seconds had to carry him to his corner. By some miracle they revived him to go out for the eleventh. But it was an act that was devoid of mercy. For Heenev was but a wreck of his once superb physical self, reduced to a husk by Tunney's blows. Yet the gameness of him and his own frame kept him erect in face of the furious attack of Tunney.

But the referee knew that Heenev was done, that all hope to him was gone. No eight seconds before the round was to come to its end he pushed back Tunney, and helped Heenev to his corner.

And so it was that Gene Tunney perpetuated himself as champion of the world.

was slow following his advantage however. A moment later another right hit Tunney on the jaw and he was far from in good shape. Heenev landed a left to the jaw. Tunney looked very cautious now. Heenev's nose was bleeding slightly. The champion pummeled Heenev's face with his left and also stuck the same punch into his body and took a right to the head. Heenev's round.

Tunney danced away and then stepped his left in Tom's face. Tom countered with a right to the head. Gene landed a right and hopped inside the counter. He landed to the body and chin. Heenev scored with a left hand and sent a right to the body. Heenev was wild with a left hook and took a left to the head in return. They exchanged hard rights and then went in close. Tunney again poked a left to the face and clipped Tom hard on the profile with a right and ducked under Heenev's lead. The next time he went inside Tom's left dancing around he suddenly slipped in with a hard right. He made Heenev miss and then landed to the body. Tom fought back with a hard right to the jaw which drove Tunney back on his heels. They both missed lefts and clinched. Heenev was bleeding badly. Gene poked a left into Tom's face but the challenger went in swinging and drove Tunney's head from right to left with a series of swings to the head. Tunney's round.

Round Five
Tunney landed a left to the face and they clinched. Heenev flinched and the champion danced away. He poked and hooked a series of lefts to Tom's face and made Tom miss a right. Another right lead to the body caught Tom as he came in. Heenev went under Tunney's right lead but took two hard lefts to the face. Heenev missed a poke to the head. Tunney was treating now but scoring as he went. A hard right to the body stopped Tom as he came in and he took two lefts to the head. Tom missed a wild left to the head and Heenev went to land with his left and landed each time, he missed another left however. Gene then slipped a left to the head and countered with a hard right after which he wrestled Heenev to the floor. It was not a backdown. Tunney scored a hard left to the head and followed with a right cross to the same spot. Heenev swung a left and right upon the air as the bell rang. Tunney's round.

Round Six
Heenev was wild with a left and right and again they clinched. They exchanged rights to the body and once more clinched. Tunney scored with a right to the head and ducked a right. Tunney missed a left but followed with a stiff right to the head. Heenev countered with a left and right to the head. He followed with a left hook to the stomach. Heenev took an over-head right to the head and took one in return. They engaged in a cuffling match in close. Tunney again led with a right to the body as Tom came in. Heenev slipped a right to the head and took one to the body. Tom landed two rights to the head and a left to the body. Gene landed on the body with a right. A left and right to the head and Heenev blinking backwards. The challenger was wild with a left and Gene didn't neglect to score. He hit Heenev with a low right and immediately apologized. They went slugging away at close quarters at the bell. Tunney's round.

Round Seven

Round Eight
Tunney looked fresh as he came out. He easily smothered Heenev's punches. Heenev seemed to be having trouble with his eyes as Tunney landed a right. Gene was sportsmanlike and refused to follow up the advantage but later went to work with a flurry of lefts and rights to the challenger's head. Heenev blinked and backed away and looking like a man half blind as Gene landed repeatedly on his head. Tom was hurt by two stiff lefts to the head. He countered with a left to the body. Tunney pounded Heenev about the face ferociously, the challenger backing away. A hard left to the body sent

Round Nine
Heenev was blinking as he came out. Gene clipped him with two lefts to the chin. They exchanged rights and clinched. Tunney scored with a long left but was driven back with a right to the body. Gene landed a straight left. Tunney was wild with a left lead and Tom stuck a right fairly to the body. A left hook answered Tom on the chin and when a right to the jaw showed him up as he came in. He took a beating about the body in a clinch. Tom missed a left. Heenev's head was snapped back with a series of lefts and Tom's wild right nearly landed on Gene's head. Gene's left landed to the face repeatedly. Gene ducked a left lead and cuffed Tom in close. Heenev's face bore a great resemblance to a beefsteak but he still rushed. But he got a right to the body. Gene met him a moment later with three lefts and a hard right but was driven back by a hard right to the head. Two more lefts scored on Tom's face and as he came in close Tunney looked a stinging left to the chest. Tunney's round.

Round Ten
Tunney slipped Heenev two lefts to the face and took a left to the body. Tom took a right to the body and a right and two lefts to the head. A series of lefts and rights also went to Tom's face. Gene skipped about, putting only to drive right and left to the head and body. Gene landed a left hook to the stomach. They exchanged lefts and rights. Tom going under Gene's guard to his body. Tom was wild with a left and Gene stepped in poking blows to the head. Tom came on in hard right but was driven back by a blow to the damaged eye. Gene danced to the center of the ring and Tom missed a right. Tom took a hard left to the head in mid-ring. Tunney landed series of burning rights and lefts to the chin, almost without return. Heenev almost went out. Tunney's round.

Round Eleven
To meane out swinging a right which missed. Tunney slipped in and landed two stiff lefts to the head. Heenev went on the defensive and took lefts to the face. Tom lashed out with lefts and rights but missed. Tunney coming back with left and right. Gene landed a straight left. Tunney drove right to the body and Tom landed left to the jaw. Gene came back with series of lefts and rights to Tom's face. In a neutral corner Tom took a left to the body. Also a left to the head and a right to the stomach. Gene drove Tom to the ropes with a right. Gene drove Tom to the ropes with a right. Tom landed a left and a right to the head. Gene drove a left to the body and poked the same punch to the face. Gene nailed Tom with lefts and rights to the head. Tom landed a left. A left drove Tom back on his heels. Short snappy punches and at this time Referee Forbes intervened and declared Tunney winner by a technical knockout.

SHORT SHIP MEETING OPENS MONDAY WITH FAST HORSES ENTERED

Two Races Are Being Planned for Next Season

STABLES ARRIVING

First Day of Program To Be "Ladies' Day." It Is Announced

BY KIM R. MCILROY
Sports Editor, The Star

Marion is on the verge of a new era of horse racing that promises to place the "Stinky City" back at the head of the Short Ship Circuit as the best town in the loop, according to Frank Foster, secretary of the Marion Driving association.

Foster is preparing for the greatest race meeting held in Marion for a number of years to open Monday afternoon on the 1½ mile track.

Following the races at Mansfield and coming in between two open dates in the Grand Circuit program, the Marion meet is expected to attract some of the best horses in the country. More than 200 trotters and pacers will be studied here during the week.

During the past several years racing in Marion has gradually lost its attractiveness. This season promises to put the game back on its feet and next year will see a great revival of the sport with two Short Ship meets being planned.

During the early years of the circuit, Marion was considered the best city of them all. The best horses were entered here and fans from all over the country gathered for the state's greatest meet. Several years ago Mansfield was introduced into the Short Ship circuit and has become the leading race town of the state. Wednesday morning more than 5,000 people saw Gratian Bars establish a new state record.

Five days of high class racing will be held here. Purses totaling $9,000 will be given to the winners.

Horses started as early in the week and many of the famous stables of the country are represented. Most of the races will arrive Saturday and Sunday.

The racing schedule will open here Monday afternoon at two o'clock when Ladies' Day will be observed.

A little light is beginning to sift through the tangled mass of teams tied for first place in the Industrial League following the defeat of Osgood last night by C. D. & M. First position is now occupied by two teams, the electricians and Shovel Club. This tie will exist until postponed games are played unless some of the weaker league teams show a spark of life to defeat one or other of the leaders.

Osgood, according to the score sheet, had little license to drop the contest to C. D. & M. The final score was 4 to 2. Two costly errors backed by seven hits gave the electricians a victory and set the losers down in second place. The winners scored in the second, fourth and fifth innings.

Erie Roundhouse failed to give the Shovel Club much of a battle, the latter winning by a 11 to 6 score. The Shovel continued to put out the fine brand of ball that has characterized their play for the past several weeks. Hocking Valley continued to lose ground dropping to last place, 9 to 6. Two runs in the sixth inning gave Huber the game. Evansville forfeited and Fairfield continued to hold third place.

SCOTT IS OUT

Sustains Injury When He Crashes Into Concrete Wall
New York, July 27—Pete Scott, outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, will be out of the game for the remainder of the season and may never play ball again. He sustained a broken vertebra at the base of the neck when he crashed into the concrete wall at the Polo Grounds yesterday while chasing a fly hit by Jackson of the Giants. The hit went for a homer.

The injury to Scott hurts the chances of the Pirates, as he was one of their best hitters. Manager Donie Bush, already short of substitutes, plans to secure another outfielder immediately.

TILDEN AND LACOSTE READY FOR CUP PLAY

Frenchman at Top Form While "Big Bill" Suffers from Mental Stress

Paris, July 27—"Big Bill" Tilden, reinstated American star, and Rene Lacoste, French tennis ace, clash today in the opening match of the challenge round for the Davis cup. Lacoste, who is considered the steadiest player in the world, is now playing at top form. Tilden, on the other hand, is off from as the result of the mental stress he suffered when barred from Davis cup play last week by the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Further, in recent years, the Frenchman has scored several victories over the tall American. Yesterday, Tilden was defeated in a practice set, 9 to 7, by Wilbur "Junior" Cope, the Kansas City tennis prodigy.

Yet none of the Parisian papers are prophesizing that Tilden will be defeated when he crosses racquets with Lacoste this afternoon. They are not so reticent about the match between John Hennessey, of Indianapolis and Henry Cockett, which will be played later in the day. Although the Hoosier star defeated Cockett in the United States championships last year, Cockett is a big favorite to win here.

The personnel of the doubles teams which will meet tomorrow has not been announced as yet. On Sunday Tilden will meet Cockett while Hennessey will clash with Lacoste.

Most of the morning papers favored France to win three of the five matches of the challenge round. Most of them conceded Tilden one victory over either Lacoste or Cockett. As the Echo Paris put it "it seems hardly possible that Tilden will beat both our aces."

GENE EXPECTED TO LOOK OVER HIS NEW HOME

Stamford, Conn., July 27—Gene Tunney is expected here today to inspect his new home, which he intends to occupy in the near future. The library in the domicile of the heavyweight champion is stocked with 40 volumes of books, including some of Shakespeare's works.

A Distinguished Hotel

The Hotel Astoria is the hotel everyone knows and loves, and is the place to stay when you are in Astoria. It is the best hotel in the town. It is the place to stay when you are in Astoria. It is the best hotel in the town.

AW, BE GAME, TEX

Richard Could Pull Out of "Hot" By Leaving State

NEW YORK, July 27—Tex Richard may come out ahead on last night's fight if Gene Tunney will take a cut in his share of the gate.

At it stands, according to present estimates, the promoter will lose at least $225,000. Gene's share was guaranteed at $525,000. If Richard holds him to the state athletic commission ruling that he get no more than 37 1/2 per cent of the gross, Tunney will receive a little more than $200,000 and Tex will be winner by about $100,000.

Astronomers have found that the average temperature around the pole of Mars is 56 degrees below zero and at the equator it seldom rises higher than 50 above.

Other women can't see how a man can be jealous of his wife.

Gene's Boxing Disappoints Mandell; Champ Easy to Hit

BY SAMMY MANDELL
Lightweight Champion of the World.

New York, July 27—I was rather disappointed in Gene Tunney's boxing although his eleventh round knockout of Tom Heeneey was a workmanlike job. The champion showed that he could hit when he floored the game but unscientific Heeneey just before the bell in the tenth but his boxing was a surprise and a disappointment to me.

Tunney isn't near the boxer I had imagined he was, having drawn my conclusions from what I had read. This was the first heavy weight championship fight I had ever witnessed and I came expecting to see in Tunney a man who was highly skilled in the finer points of the game.

But no — his boxing was only mediocre. He leaves himself exposed to a left hook and a right cross because he carries both of his hands too low.

he stuck into Tom Heeneey's honest, old face. The fault is that Tunney must bring the left up and then stick it out. He should carry that left higher.

Tunney has a very good right to the heart but his right cross isn't what it could be if he shot it over in the right way. In delivering a right cross the champion goes through two motions: He brings his right up and then he shoots it over. He goes through two motions when one would do. If he held that right of his higher it would be a whole long because he has plenty of stuff behind it when he shoots. However, a clever man could see it coming the way he pegs it now.

The fight was interesting even though it was one-sided. After Tunney began fighting Tom at long range the challenger had no chance. Heeneey is one of the gamest fighters I have ever seen and he deserves a world of credit. And so does Tunney. When Tunney found he was on the wrong track at the start he had the brains to change and from the fourth on he won as he pleased. He did a good job but Heeneey is not a great fighter.

State Auto Association Sends Out Questionnaire on Legislative Measures

A questionnaire seeking the views of candidates on four pieces of legislation favored by the Ohio State Automobile Association and on three measures to which the association is opposed, has been prepared and will be submitted to the various aspirants for public office, it was announced at the office of the Marion Auto club today.

The various measures termed by the questionnaires as constructive legislation were approved at the annual convention of the state association held in Toledo May 25 and 26.

The first proposal asks for adoption of a motor vehicle drivers' law, the bill to be approved by the Ohio State Automobile Association. The second seeks a uniform traffic law and as far as possible the standardization of traffic control. The third, a reduction of the price of automobile license plates to $1 and elimination of present justice of the peace courts and enactment of rural county court law.

The measures to which the association is opposed, according to the questionnaire, are an increase in the gasoline tax and the compulsory insurance plan of Massachusetts. In connection with this measure, however, the association intends to submit a substitute plan which is now being drafted by a national committee of the American Automobile Association. The state association is also against any freak laws aimed at the automobile owner.

Attached to the questionnaire is a coupon for the signature of the candidate and the office which he is seeking, in which he pledges his support of the measures advocated by the association.

SAUSAGE

SWIFT ~ branded on the side of the ham and bacon..

for your protection...

INVESTIGATION has shown that on numerous occasions other hams and bacon have been substituted when Premium was ordered.

This can no longer be practiced.

To protect the conscientious dealer and discriminating consumer, Premium

Hams and Bacon can now be identified not only by the brand "Swift Premium" but also by the brand "Swift" which appears in dots on the side. This branding resembles the rich brown color of the cooked ham and bacon.

FOUR NEGLECTED HEAD OF TEACHERS

Officers Chosen at Meeting of County Agriculture
Instructors

L. B. Fidler, of Waldo, was re-elected president at a meeting of vocational agriculture instructors of Marion county, held at the office of C. B. Darling, of Marietta, crops improvement

Mayburn, county superintendent of schools, West Center st., Wednesday night.
R. L. Albright, of Prospect, was named vice president of the vocational group and R. N. Lovett, of Green Camp, reporter.
Plans for the staging of the Junior fair program in connection with the Marion county fair, Sept. 11 to 14, were discussed at the meeting.
Assignment of chairmen to the various departments were made. L. B. Fidler was assigned to head the livestock improvement department. H. W. Darling, of Marietta, crops improvement ment. H. M. Tomlin, of Pleasant Township, engineering; H. L. Albright, of Prospect, plant diseases and insect control and H. N. Lovett, of Green Camp, animal parasites and diseases.

Upon the invitation of Roland Leeper, secretary of the Marion County Farm Bureau, who attended the meeting, the teachers decided to inspect the farm bureau fertilizer plant located near Cincinnati. The trip to the plant will be made Aug. 10, according to a decision made at the meeting.
The county teachers will also attend the vocational teachers' annual convention to be held at the Ohio Experimental station, at Wooster, next week, it was decided.

GROCERY AND MEAT MARKET

You'll Like Sugardale bacon

Because it fries
so crispy and sweet

SUGARDALE BACON is Cured dry.

That's what makes it so different—so much sweeter and tastier—than ordinary bacon.

That's why it fries to a crispy golden brown without the annoying sputtering and spattering of wet-cured bacon.

Start tomorrow with a breakfast of this really better bacon. You'll find it on sale in all Sugardale stores as this week's Sugardale Special.

And don't forget that bacon is much more than just a breakfast delicacy. For example, the next time you have some mashed potatoes on hand, try this:

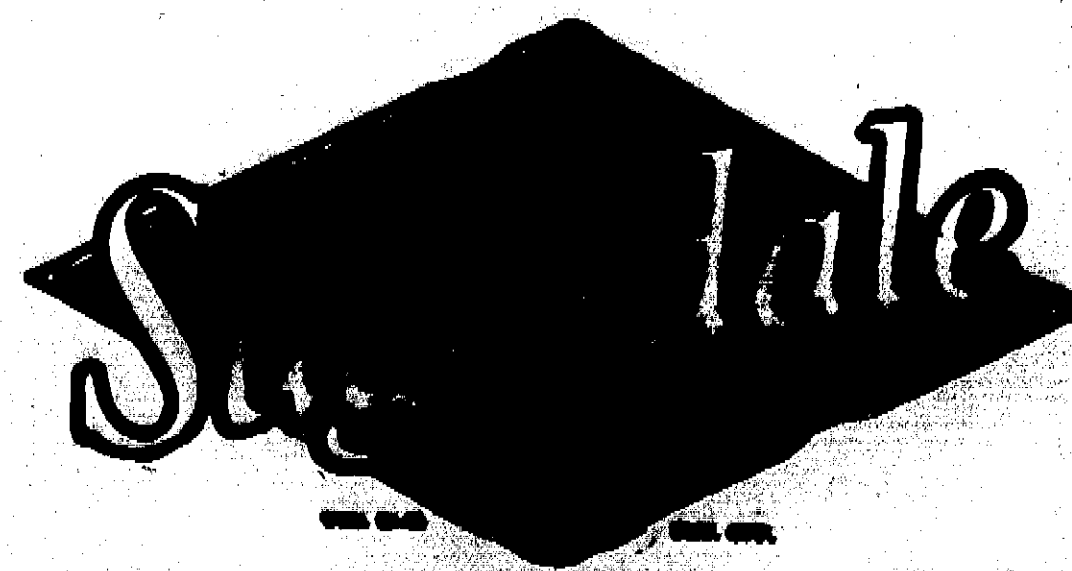

Drop one egg into the potatoes. While mixing in the egg add a dash of paprika and just enough flour so that the potatoes can be rolled into small balls or cakes. Then wrap with a strip of Sugardale bacon, securing it with a toothpick. Broil until the bacon is browned and crisp.

There's A Flavor and Zest in Sugardale Meats

unlike anything you ever tasted. They are wrapped, for cleanliness, and many are cooked for you, ready to serve—

Sliced Bacon	Pressed Ham
Ham	Nippy Loaf
Baked Ham	Meat Loaf
Boiled Ham	Ham Loaf
Hanover Ham	Fresh Sausage
Wieners	Smoked Sausage
Bologna	Dried Beef
Sugardale	Windsor Style
Liver Special	Ham
Goose Liver	Chicken Liver
Sausage	Style Sausage

Any of these meats can be purchased at Sugardale stores. One of these dealers is in your neighborhood. Make it a habit to buy your meats there. You'll enjoy their freshness and pure goodness.

SATURDAY RADIO FEATURE

Plans Special Program

The Edward Elgar, Tchaikovsky and Schubert feature the opening concert to be broadcast by the New York Philharmonic symphony orchestra in the stadium over the National Broadcasting System at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night.

The program will open with "Pomp and Circumstance" march by Elgar, followed by the "Nutcracker" suite by Tchaikovsky. Rossini's "William Tell" overture will complete the program.

Three movements from Haydn's "Surprise Symphony" will be played by the Whittall Anglo-American orchestra in the program to be broadcast through the National Broadcasting system at 7:45 o'clock Sunday night.

Other numbers include: "The Nutcracker" suite by Tchaikovsky, "The Marriage of Figaro" by Mozart, and a hymn by Elgar.

The most popular march by the greatest march composers of the last half-century will feature the Stetson parade to be broadcast over the National Broadcasting system at 8 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

"Dvorak's 'American Quartet,' requiring nearly a half hour for its full reading, will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting system at 8 o'clock Sunday night.

The story of "David and Goliath," perhaps the most familiar of all Bible tales of courage and heroism, will be broadcast in the Biblical Drama series over the National Broadcasting System at 8:35 o'clock Sunday night.

LUCKY WILL WORK LAOSER
These mysterious squeaks and knocks that occur when turning corners or traveling over a rough road very frequently are no more than loose nuts in the huge that hold the rims on the wheels. They work loose and periodic inspection will pay. They permit side to side play of the tire, which means wear.

An automatic device has been invented that can be built into standard phonograph cabinets to play any number of records up to ten without attention.

British Physician Finds Women Pay Too Great a Price For Success in World

Sees Danger in "Dual Life," Points to Overdeveloped "Fight Glands"

DR. LEONARD L. B. WILLIAMS

Does business unit women for success in marriage? Dr. Leonard L. B. Williams, one of England's best known physicians and Fellow of the Royal Society of Medicine, brings to this perplexing question the latest findings of science.

Dr. Williams is the son of the late Leonard Williams of Deudreth Castle, Wales. Educated in England, Scotland, France and Germany, he early became interested in problems of the glands, one of which he is one of the great authorities in England.

In Dr. Williams' view, the question depends entirely on the glands, those mysterious bodily elements which determine "whether you are tall or short, dark or fair, clever or stupid, energetic or lethargic, male or female."

The struggle of modern business, he declares, tends to overdevelop woman's adrenal gland, "the male element which lurks in every female," the "gland of fight."

The result? When she turns to marriage and maternity she often finds she cannot divest herself of the dominating influence of this overdeveloped "masculine" gland—that she is a "failure in adaptation."

Dr. Williams is famous in England as the originator of the "annual overhaul" or yearly physical test, for life insurance. "In examining candidates for life insurance," he declared in an interview here today, "I frequently see people who, though they claim to be well, are nevertheless much below concert pitch. They are not ill, but they are."

"For such people," he continued, "I should recommend less feasting and more yeasting."

"Yeast is more than a medication—it rouses the system to full physiological efficiency, of assimilation and excretion."

"You break it—use it."

JAPAN TO BUILD ROADS
A comprehensive plan for road improvement and construction for the whole of Japan which contemplates the expenditure of about $3,000,000,000 over the next ten years has been formulated by the civil engineering bureau of the home department, says the American Automobile association.

The A. A. A. says the program will extend over a length of 3,000 miles of road. Municipalities, the national government and others are said to be aroused to the necessity for providing for increasing automobile traffic.

SEVEN CANDIDATES RECEIVE DEGREES

Three Orders Conferred by Knights Templar; Visiting
Delegations Here

Delegations from Mansfield, Mt. Vernon and Kenton attended degree work ceremonies conducted by Marion County Masons, No. 99, Knights Templar at 8 o'clock yesterday.

Seven candidates were given three degrees. The order of the Red Cross was conferred at 8 o'clock and was followed by the order of Malta. At 8:30 o'clock last night the order of the Temple was conferred.

A dinner for the degree teams, visitors and candidates was given at the Temple dining room at 6 o'clock last night.

EXAMINER ILL

T. W. Jones, State Man Inspecting
County Books, Suffers Night Stroke

T. W. Jones, representative of the state bureau of inspection, who is in charge of the examination of records of county officials here, is recovering from a slight apoplectic stroke, according to word received here today.

The heat, together with strain caused by a new pair of eye glasses, is thought to have been responsible for Mr. Jones' stroke. He was taken to his home in Columbus several days ago.

The examination, which has been in progress since last February, will be completed within a few weeks by A. C. Atwell, associate of Mr. Jones.

FINAL CHAPTER

Sale of Accounts To Wind Up Fairbanks-Horner Hotel Co. Affairs

The final chapter in the history of the defunct Fairbanks-Horner Hotel Co. will be written Saturday afternoon when a few outstanding bills receivable are offered for sale at public auction.

The sale will be held on the west steps of the courthouse at 2 o'clock, according to A. J. Berry, receiver for the company. Following the offer of the accounts for sale the receiver will make his final report.

K. OF C. COMPLETE PROGRAM FOR PICNIC

Sports Events To Feature Entertainment at Annual Outing Sunday

Members of Marion Council, Knights of Columbus, and the congregation of St. Mary's Catholic church will participate in the council's annual picnic at the fairgrounds Sunday.

Complete program was announced today by the committee in charge of the outing.

The picnic will begin at noon and continue through the afternoon. Baseball games for men and boys will be one of the features. Other events on the program will be two races for girls, 10 to 12 years and 13 to 16 years; fat women's race, egg race and milk driving contest for girls and women; races for boys, three-legged race for boys, watermelon eating contest for boys, fat men's race, tug-of-war and an apple eating contest for both boys and girls.

TEMPORARY LIGHTS PLACED ON STREET

Installation of Poles for New
W. Center System To Start
Next Week

Temporary lights have been installed by the C. D. & M. Electric Co. on West Center st., to replace the standards which have been removed pending installation of the new lighting system. The light standards on the north side of the street have been out since work on improvement of the street was started several months ago and yesterday the standards were removed from the south side of the street between Orchard and Garden sts.

Under the charge plan provided for in the franchise with the company, the city does not pay for any lights that are not burning and the absence of lights on the north side of the street for the last several months represented a saving to the city on a light bill. Work of installing the poles for the new light system is expected to be started next week.

HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC

Firemen's Festival at Prospect Draws Large Attendance

Prospect, July 27.—The annual Firemen's festival was held in the Community park, Wednesday night, with one of the largest crowds ever in attendance. About $150 was cleared from sale of ice cream, tickets and on the concessions. One hundred and two awards were contributed by the various business men of Prospect. Music for the event was furnished by the Prospect band.

CITY BRIEFS

Taken to Hospital—Mrs. F. E. Thomas, 131 Wall st., was removed from her home to City hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment.

Meeting Postponed—Regular meeting of the Moschworth Legion, scheduled for last night, was postponed two weeks on account of the hot weather.

Enters Hospital—Mrs. Ira Oswald, three miles west of Norton, was removed from her home to City hospital yesterday afternoon in the M. H. Ginder invalid car.

Condition Critical—The condition of Mrs. Howard Gier, 10 Marion av., who is critically ill at City Hospital, was given as a little better, by hospital attendants today.

Suitcase Lost—Loss of a black suitcase containing several silk dresses and a boy's suit of clothing was reported to the local police by Mrs. Harry Marchison of Pittsburgh, last night. The case was lost from an automobile while Mrs. Marchison was passing through the city with a tourist party.

Managers To Meet—The Ohio Managers association of the Ohio State Life Insurance Co., of which E. G. Stewart, manager of the Marion branch, is a member, will meet Friday and Saturday at Vermilion, on Lake Erie. Every section of the state will be represented. Among the speakers will be President John M. Sawyer, Medical Director C. E. Schilling, and Superintendent of Agencies W. S. Boyer of Columbus.

Permits Issued—Building permits for two dwellings and two garages were issued at the office of the city clerk yesterday afternoon to C. A. Curtis. The dwellings will be built on Walnut st., at a cost of $3,000 each. The garages will be built on the same locations at a cost of $100 each were also taken out by Mr. Curtis. A permit was also issued to the Fincher Heating Co., Silver st., for a loading platform to cost $200.

CRITICALLY ILL

Slight Improvement Reported at Hospital in Condition of George Wyne

Slight improvement was noted at City Hospital today in the condition of George Wyne, Waterloo st., who took poison at his home, Wednesday morning.

Wyne says that he took several tablets of bicarbonate of mercury by mistake, thinking they were a laxative. He is reported to be in critical condition by the attending physician.

JOHNSON CLASS MEMBERS ARE GUESTS AT PICNIC

Prospect, July 27.—The Johnson Sunday School class of the Methodist church enjoyed a social Tuesday night at the home of Miss Mary Elizabeth Cooper, in the grove at the Beloit Power plant. About 30 members were present. The evening was spent with games and refreshments were served. Plans were made to attend the County Epworth League picnic in Garfield park, Marion, Thursday.

BIRTHS

Twins, a boy and girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, 100 Dix av., at City Hospital, last night.

Announcement was made today of the birth, July 10, of a daughter, Maebel Louise, to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson, 803 York st.

A daughter was born this morning at City hospital to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lawrence of San Francisco, Cal. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence have been visiting at the home of Mr. Lawrence's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Lawrence, 455 Avondale av. The baby will be christened Mary Catherine.

Accepts New Position—Miss Estella Keeler, Summit st., a former teacher in Marion public schools, has accepted a position as instructor of English in the junior and senior high schools of Wilshire, O. She will leave to take up her new position in September.

Politically no one views with alarm any more. Whatever happens, people are not scared.

COX, DAVIS ENLIST IN CAMPAIGN OF AL

Former Democratic Standard Bearer To Aid Smith and Robinson

New York, July 27.—Democratic campaign managers today answered the "bolt movement" in the party with the announcement that two former standard bearers of previous years had enlisted "for the duration of the war" in the front ranks of the campaign to elect Governor Smith to the Albany office.

They are James M. Cox of Ohio, and John W. Davis of West Virginia, Democratic presidential nominees of 1920 and 1924, respectively.

Both of the national headquarters men are subject to call for any time by the national executive committee to select for him in the campaign.

Cox, who came to New York properly to see the Tunney-Hecney financial statement, was a caller at headquarters today. Hecney indicated that he had a major role in the campaign selected for the former Ohio governor, but declined to reveal the details of the plan.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who was Cox's running mate in 1920, is a member of the executive committee.

Smith on Job

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, who was himself a presidential candidate against Smith in the House of Representatives, was the third party stalwart to enlist in the campaign today.

"My first job will be to carry Maryland for Smith and Robinson," Ritchie said, "but I am subject to call for duty in the national campaign wherever I can be of service."

Governor Smith invited Ritchie to New York for "just a talk" today. Smith is scheduled to arrive from Albany late this afternoon. He will take dinner with Ritchie and then hurry to Good Ground, L. I., for a long week-end far from the dizzy din of presidential politics. Smith will occupy the estate of the late Congressman Murphy, former chairman of the House of Representatives, for his rest. There will be "no politics" there, Smith has announced emphatically. Governor Ritchie plans to return to Baltimore tonight.

Drive for Labor

The Democratic drive for the labor vote was launched today under the direct supervision of George L. Berry, president of the international printing pressmen and assistants union, and one of the founders of the American Legion.

Berry will undertake to organize a national labor committee, with representatives in every state to carry the Smith appeal to the millions of unorganized workers. The campaign among union workers will be conducted chiefly through central trade bodies.

"This is one time wherein capital and labor can join hands upon the political field," Berry said in his acceptance of the appointment from Chairman Raskob, a director and vice president in General Motors.

Strike Heavy Blow

The public announcement of former Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma that he would support Herbert Hoover, and the withdrawal of Senator Simmons of North Carolina as a member of the Democratic National committee—both of which came on the same day—struck a heavy blow at national headquarters, despite the outward calm with which they were received. Neither was expected and the repercussion of the double-barreled upshot served to emphasize in the minds of the national strategy board the significance of the prospective campaign in the solid south. Before the Simmons and Owen statements, the south was taken for granted. Now the territory is again discussed in the daily meetings of the executive committee. Reports from yesterday's meeting, the first since the two declarations hit the street in print, indicate that the entire southern campaign program may be reconsidered.

Remove Headquarters

Chairman Raskob will leave tonight for his Maryland summer estate for the week-end. He will not see Governor Smith before he leaves.

Moving vans backed up to the Biltmore hotel this morning to begin the herculean task of transferring the going headquarters two miles uptown to the General Motors building at 65th and Broadway. The task will be completed when Raskob returns Monday morning and the daily meetings of the executive committee will be resumed. The Biltmore suite, in which every Smith campaign has found headquarters for five years, will be turned over to the Democratic State committee for use in the gubernatorial campaign.

TUNNEY REAL CHAMP AS HE BEATS TOM

completely himself by the time his challenger rushed in with his follow up and even the fact that he was clipped with another right hander near the bell failed to make further headway upon Gene's vaunted ability.

Gene Through Ropes

The round was Hecney's—the last one. The incident marked the last effective gesture he was to make during the fight.

Hecney, blinking and bobbing and sliding uneasily away managed to weather the storm in the eighth with visible trouble but undoubtedly these punches were having their cumulative effect. The challenger offered slightly more fight in the ninth but took a cruel beating. In the tenth, it was seen that the end was not far off.

Tunney continued to snap his stinging left to the face, bring up his right to the chin, curl his left inside to the liver and otherwise buffet his man. He shot three stiff lefts to the chin and with each Hecney's tortured head was snapped back on his shoulder blades as though on a hinge. He staggered back, clearly knocked-legged, from the last one and Tunney, quick to sense the beginning of the end, leaped in with a storm of lefts and rights that finally drove Tom through the ropes.

Not Much Fight

The bell intervened to save the challenger.

He came again for the eleventh, flinging his right with dying zeal. But Tunney, jolly cool with the deadly certainty of the master, slipped the punch and went out for the finish he knew must be his. For upward of two minutes and a half, he buffeted Hecney about with his right, burning, hot, but altogether lethal punches. Another one might have done for Hecney; two or three more surely would have made the job complete. But Referee Forbes wisely would have no more.

As Richard was obligated to Tunney for the reported matter of $325,000, Hecney $100,000, the stadium for 10 per cent and the government for 20 per cent of the gross, it won't take a certified public accountant to figure his profits.

TO PLEAD SELF-DEFENSE

Zaneville, July 27.—Indications were that Charles Barton, 61, of Philo, will plead self-defense when arraigned in municipal court here today on a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the slaying of George Briggs, 33, Barton's tenant, at the Barton home yesterday. Prosecutor Crossland stated that he hoped to lay the case before the grand jury which is now in session.

CALIFORNIA EXTENDS TRIBUTE TO HOOVER

Favorite Son Leads Caravan Tour to Scenes of Youth

rode or walked alone before he made his mark in the world.

There will be a dramatic background to the San Francisco celebration. It was from the city of Golden Gate that Hoover went forth, 30 years ago, to seek his fortunes in Australia. He laid aside a nest egg in the Antipodes, returned a year later, married the girl of his heart and sailed again from San Francisco on a homeward-bound ship to a new job in the Orient. He returned time and again and each time went forth to new laurels.

Fourteen years ago, he left to win world renown. It was in 1914, that San Francisco sent him to Europe to gain the participation of European nations in its Panama fair.

While abroad, Hoover plunged into war activities, passed through a host of great offices and today, he returned a wealthy man and holding the greatest honor his party could bestow upon him.

Hoover was to arrive here at 10:30 this morning over the Southern Pacific line, riding in a chair car attached to a regular train. His party was to include George Akeron, A. S. Secretary, Rep. John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, who accompanied him west, newspaper men and photographers. He will reach San Francisco at 11:35 and be home again by 5 o'clock.

600 FANS ATTEND STAR FIGHT PARTY

Hear Detailed Account of Tunney Victory Given in Auditorium

About 600 ardent supporters of Gene Tunney and Tom Hecney assembled in the Marion Star auditorium last night to hear the results of the heavyweight championship battle staged in New York.

Enthusiastic cries and occasional hurrahs greeted the announcer as he gave the blow-by-blow report direct from the ring-side at Yankee stadium. Signs, too, were not lacking, especially when the battle had progressed as far as the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds and Hecney fans, who had led the cheering in the first three rounds, began to squirm uneasily in their seats.

"Tunney wins by a knockout," the report was occupied by a display of shouts of the "Tunney." The hall was cleared before the curtain had died but the cheering continued on the face trooped through the upper streets.

Davis J. Walsh, sports editor of the International News Service and general correspondent of the Marion Star, dictated the blow-by-blow report as the ring-side prizefighter.

Assumes that the report of the fight was a knockout, the crowd was divided by the report of the fight was a knockout.

FINES ASSESSED IN TWO TRAFFIC CASES

Small Levies Made Following First Arrest for Stop Sign Violation

Ralph Auguststein, Elmwood dr., the first motorist to be picked up by the police in a campaign for more careful observance of the stop street traffic rule was fined $2 by acting Municipal Judge J. D. Williamson this morning.

Auguststein was arrested by Chief of Police Thompson Tuesday morning when he failed to observe the stop sign while driving from Mt. Vernon avenue Church at. He paid his fine and the case was dismissed.

Auguststein's case, together with that of Mrs. John Smith, of Agosta, who was fined $2 for blocking an alley with her car, were the extent of the cases appearing on the traffic docket today.

Strict enforcement of the stop street section of the city traffic ordinance will be carried out by the police when the work of marking the street intersections has been completed. It was announced by Chief of Police Thompson. The placing of stop signs along the curb has been completed and the streets are now being patrolled with the word "stop," in large letters.

Transoceanic Yacht Race Goal.

Loss of one of the yachts racing across the ocean from New York to Santander, Spain, adds drama to an adventure which has been renewed after a lapse of many years.

Probably Santander was selected as the goal because the donors of the two gold cups, King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, of Spain, can step down from their royal villa overlooking Santander's bay and present the trophies to the winning crews. The royal summer residence at Santander is, in fact, a box seat for the finish of the race. The king and queen can watch the yachts as they sweep into the spacious bay.

Santander's port opens off the Bay of Biscay, sixty miles west of the better known resort, San Sebastian, and 120 miles west of Biarritz. Although Spaniards through to its beaches to escape Madrid's heat, Santander is little known abroad.

The town is progressive, modern, prosperous and therefore is not sought out by tourists in search of ancient landmarks. However, between a sun-scorched, crumbling cathedral and sun-warmed sandy beach, the yacht races will find themselves met by a crowd of eager, fashionable Madrid resorters.

Finger-Printing Bootleggers.

At last the liquor enforcement officers apparently have reached the conclusion that bootlegging has ceased to be a minor offense, and should be classed along with homicide, house-breaking and like offenses against society. This conclusion is based upon the announcement that bootleggers and other liquor-law offenders are to be finger-printed, that a permanent record of their misconduct may be filed with the police of the important cities of the country.

This would seem to be a distinct step forward in liquor law enforcement. In the past the bootlegger has either escaped with a fine or a short prison sentence. At the prison, of course, he is photographed and finger-printed, but the thousands of bootleggers throughout the United States who get by with only a fine never have had to pay the penalty of having permanent identification records of themselves filed for police scrutiny.

Another decision which should receive the public approval it merits is the one which will put convicted liquor law enforcement officers doing road work in uniforms, so they may be readily identified. This should be a very useful thing. In the first place, it will enable malcontented and law-abiding citizens to identify enforcement officers who overstep the bounds of propriety and in the second place will make the work of the enforcement officer less open to ridicule and suspicion.

Grafting Prohibition Agents.

Very properly, an Ohio judge sentenced two liquor prohibition enforcement officers, convicted of hijacking, to serve a term each in a federal prison.

One is justified in using the phrase quite properly, for when any officer of the law makes use of his official position to secure for himself graft by any avenue or process, he must certainly merit the stiffest kind of punishment.

The prohibition enforcement service would have less taint of corruption if more guilty persons engaged in it were made to face the just consequences of their offenses.

Prohibition has witnessed no worse criminal than the grafting enforcement agent. Like a soldier found guilty of treason, he should be severely dealt with whenever his vicious acts are brought to light. Bootleggers are serious offenders, but the enforcement agent who perverts bootlegging, for a share of the proceeds, is far more serious crook.

There are many men of high caliber and unimpeachable character in the prohibition enforcement service. There also are a great many scoundrels who had better not be subjected to description. More high grade men might enlist in this service if it were not because the shameful corruption already revealed has resulted in a certain amount of suspicion being directed at the service as a whole.

Three-quarters of the federal agents engaged in enforcement work failed to pass an easy civil service examination a short time ago, yet were asked to give them a still easier examination and a chance to retain their jobs. The wisdom of this move is doubtful.

Every prohibition enforcement agent, like every other federal employee, ought to be selected for his task on the basis of his proven merits and thereafter held accountable for his every official action.

The ardent advocates of prohibition should be the first to insist upon a sound merit system in the selection of the enforcement ranks and in the retention of new men to fill vacancies in the ranks.

The Harvest Is Under Way.

Again rises the tide of golden wheat. Across the prairies of the mid-west men and machines are chanting their annual odyssey. From the prairies of Manitoba to the plains of Texas an illimitable inland sea of wheat is ripening in the summer sun. Flowing in endless leagues across the borders of many states, it shades from deep green in the north to bright yellow in the fields of the south. There the harvest already has begun. And in the coming weeks it will be sweeping northward with the golden tide, garnering the grain that makes the bread of half the world.

There are new flagships in that immemorial movement every year, as greater and more elaborate machines are invented to do the work that Chaldean harvesters did by hand. What the oil burners have done to sailors of the sea the combine that takes the place of a score of men is doing to the harvesters of the prairies. But harvesting, in its broad sweep northward, still is far from mechanized. The man in overalls still plays a leading role.

And the tatterdemolion crews of harvest hands still appear in season to do their weeks of strenuous work as they roam northward from farm to farm. They come from all points of the compass. All the picturesque characters of the unwritten great American novel.

To those of us who live in Ohio a real wheat harvest is not known. Ohio has, of course, countless thousands of acres of wheat every year, and threshing time in Ohio is a time for ceaseless energy, daylight to dark working hours—yet harvest in Ohio is not the tremendous thing it is in the prairie states.

The wheat belt in the central west is something amazing in its proportions. It starts in Texas, and it continues in an unbroken strip through Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and into western Canada. It takes in much of Montana, Minnesota, Missouri, New Mexico, Colorado and Utah. In area, it is a vast empire in itself. In potential value of the garnered grain it is priceless.

Harvest hands are fewer in number today than a few years back due to the coming of the combine, but there still is a sizable army of harvesters each year in the wheat belt. They are sturdy fellows, some old, some young. They do not balk at long hours. The eight-hour day is unknown in harvest time. The thing is to harvest the wheat, and if it requires sixteen hours to do it, then the harvesters work sixteen hours. They are well paid, too, and their meals—ah, those meals! And when a harvest hand retires at night in a haymow he doesn't go to sleep so much as he falls unconscious, not to stir until the breakfast call comes at 4 in the morning.

What Kind of a Driver Are You?

Why so excited and frustrated when driving in congested areas?

What's the use of scowling and swearing at other drivers and arriving at your destination in a wrought-up condition?

What do they care whether or not you are displeased?

Probably they have enjoyed your evidence of discomfit.

The traffic problem grows more complex each year.

Conditions in auto driving will not improve till many more are riding in the air, and it will be some time before this happens.

So automobiles increase in number and you must learn to accept the inevitable gracefully and get some real enjoyment out of your family car.

The man who takes his family out and allows himself to become angered to the point where they can not have a good time would better stay at home.

A good-natured dad at home is better than an angry one in a car.

Meet the unavoidable with a philosophical mind and get the most out of life for yourself and for your near and dear ones.

Be a good sport while in your car.

It will pay you, it will be appreciated by others.

Vagrant Verse.

THE POSTULANT.

Receive me back, who silently return
 And kneel again in my accustomed place.
 Know me despite the things I went to learn,
 Remember this heart, these fingers and this face.

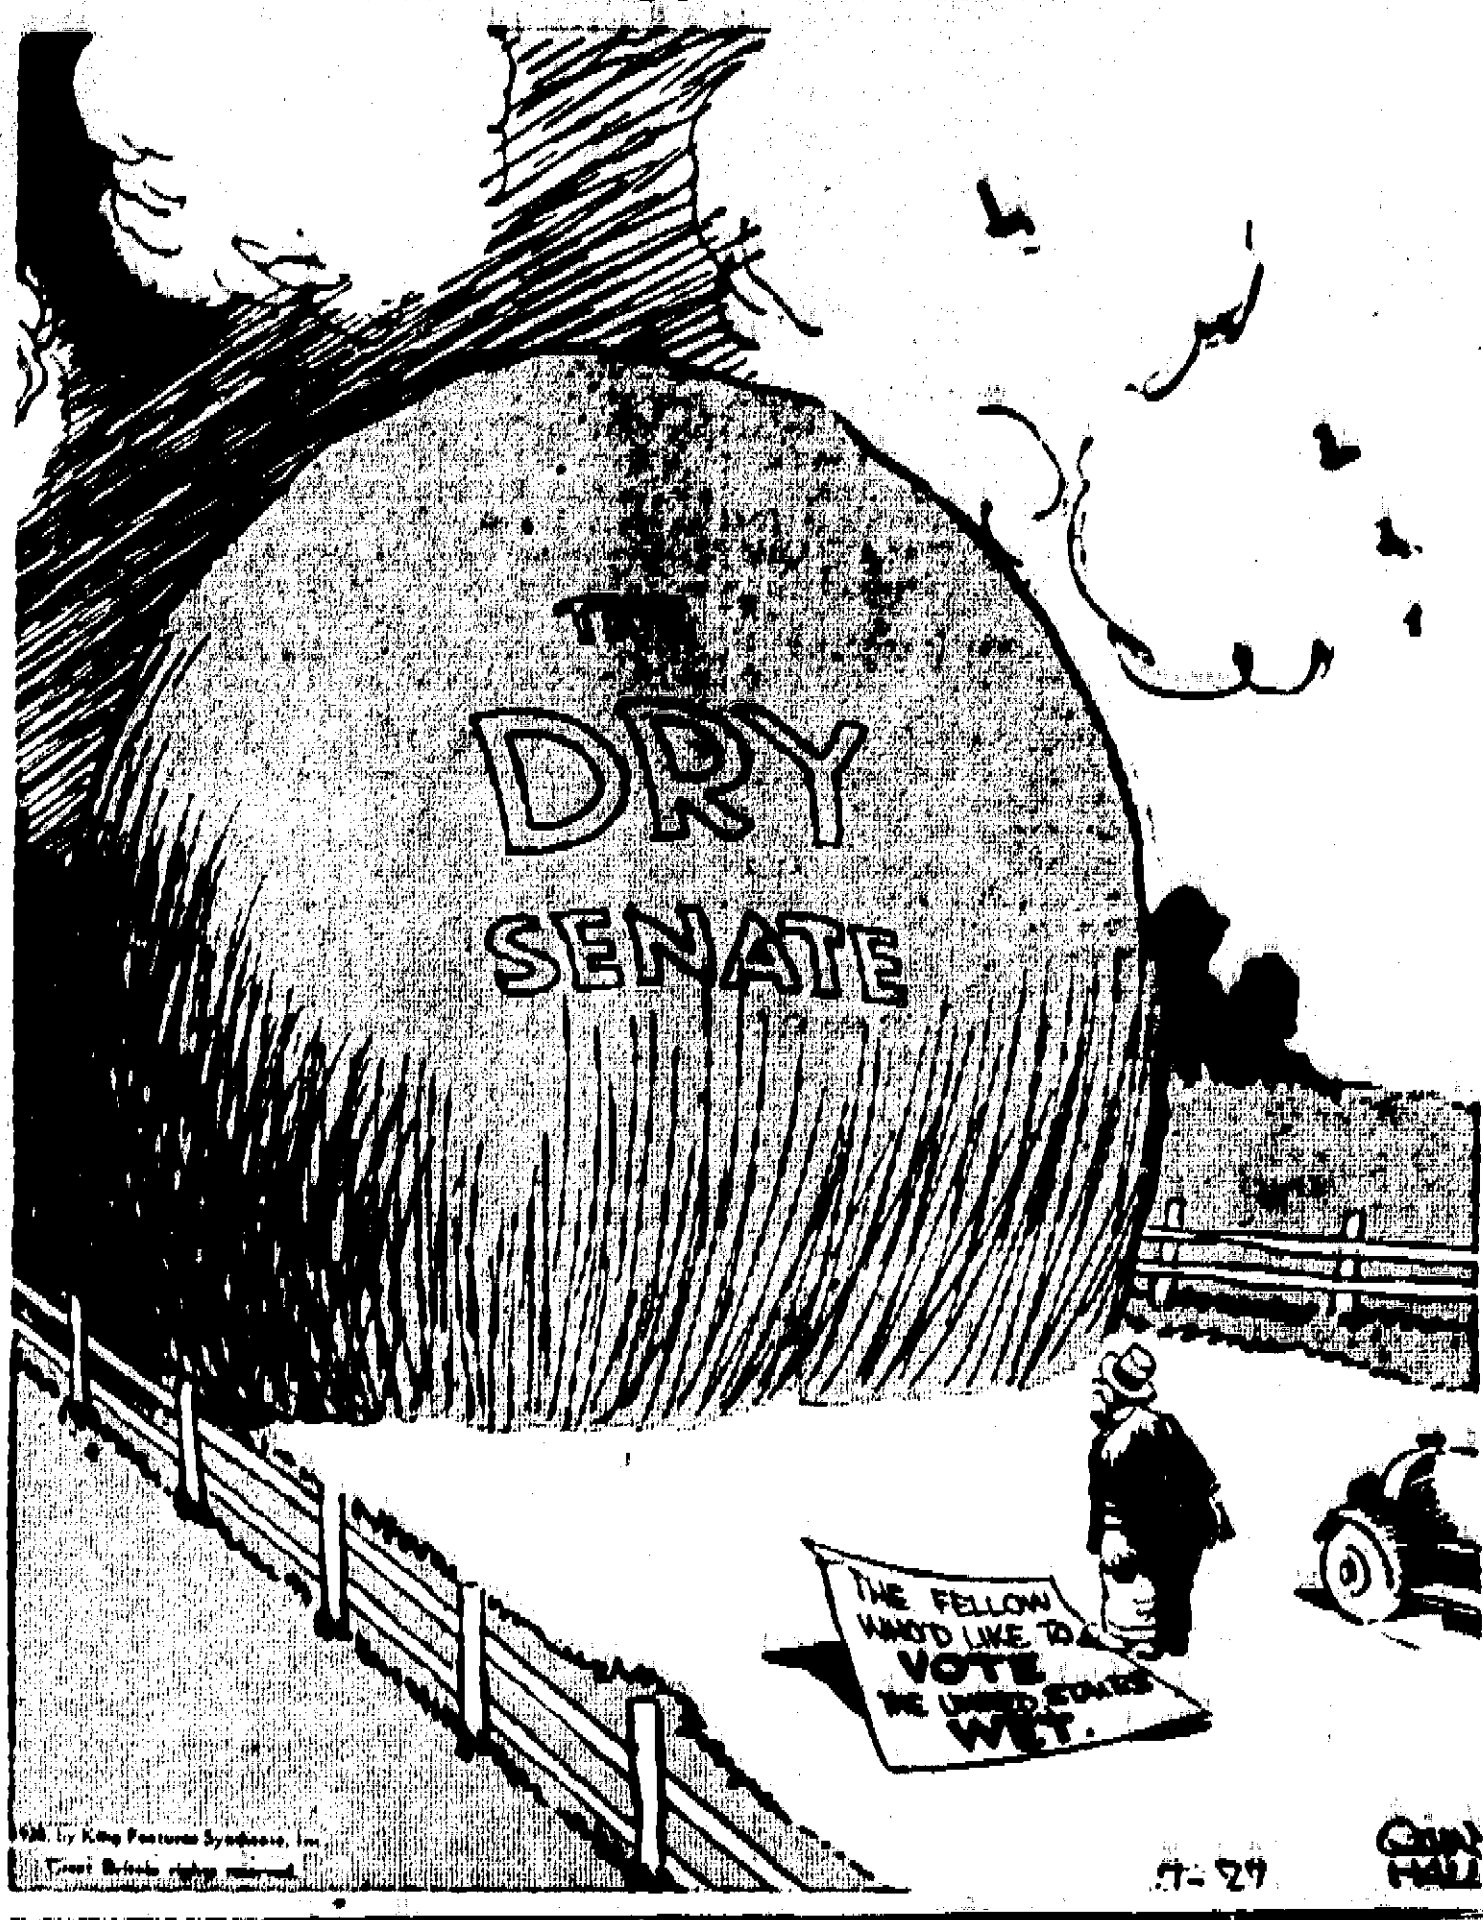

Let me come back in silence; there have been
 So many words for every other thing;
 I am as tired of words as of towns and men,
 Tired of the sound of shouting and of whistling.

There is no proof I've walked the world Around,
 I have roused no love that has not reached
 Its end.

I have built no house on any solid ground,
 I have made no solemn vow to any friend.
 Give me the morning garments, cut my hair,
 God of my dreamy youth, I have heard Thy call.

Lean to me once again, though I bring no prayer,
 My silence and my tears will tell Thee all.

THE OBSTRUCTING BOULDER.

Muscular Atrophy Serious Ailment.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Nothing can be more worrisome than to lose the power of locomotion or to become helpless in the use of arms and hands. Such an affliction can come as the result of an injury, but also it may be the advanced stage of an affliction called "Progressive Muscular Atrophy." The "living skeleton" in the circus sideshow is the victim—or the beneficiary—of this disease. He is capitalizing his misery.

In the beginning of this disease, there are pains in the arms and shoulders. At first the patient may think he has a slight touch of rheumatism. Then he notices an unusual tired feeling, or a sense of numbness somewhere.

A little later there is atrophy or wasting of one or more muscles. The trouble may be in the hand, perhaps it becomes difficult to move the thumb. Gradually the other muscles of the hands are attacked. Then the forearm, the arm and shoulder are attacked.

This one-sided process may have taken several months. Then it jumps over to the other hand and progresses on that side in exactly the same way.

You see the disease is well named. Not only is it a disease causing atrophy or wasting of the muscles, but also it is progressive in its effects.

The leg muscles are not so commonly involved, but after awhile they are seized, and walking becomes an effort. All the muscles are soft and flabby. The weakness of the tissues is shown by excessive sweating.

In rare cases the speech is affected because the neck muscles are involved. For the same reason it may be difficult to swallow.

The progress of the disease is not always steady and uniform. There may be periods when it seems as if the ailment was cured. Then on it comes again, even if marked improvement had been noted.

The trouble is due to degenerative changes in the cord and spinal cord. The disease extends along the cord and, as it progresses, the various groups of muscles supplied by the spinal nerves become involved in the wasting process.

While the disease is met from early youth to old age, it is most common in the active period of life, from twenty-five to forty-five.

There are many alleged causes. It follows the various acute infectious diseases. Typhoid fever has been noted particularly as a causative factor. Any infection from within the body, as, for instance, tonsil involvement or bad teeth, may be responsible.

Extreme overwork, overstudy, overuse of any set of muscles, all these are possible factors. It has been known to follow childbirth. Lead poisoning and indurated rheumatism are other causes.

Syphilis must be included in this list. In the treatment it is essential to seek the cause. It can be traced to bad teeth or tonsils, or to some other removable condition, it is easy to deal with it.

Unfortunately, it is difficult in most instances to find a causative factor. Then the case may be dealt with on general principles. The simple rules of hygiene must be urged upon the patient. Fresh air, good, nourishing food, lots of rest and sleep, avoidance of all disturbing and disquieting things are vitally important.

Electricity in various forms has been recommended. The attending doctor must direct the treatment, but faithful adherence to his instructions is essential to success in treatment.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Comment.

AROUND THE WORLD AGAIN.

Over four centuries ago Magellan set a world's record for encircling the globe, the record standing for three centuries and a half at two years and 347 days. In 1872 Jules Verne set the world to laughing sarcastically when he sent his fictitious hero, Phileas Fogg, on a globe-circling trip that required only eighty days. Then, seventeen years later, Nellie Bly of the New York World showed that Jules Verne was not an idle dreamer after all, for she went around the world in seventy-two days, six hours and eleven minutes. This morning at breakfast there were millions who glanced idly at headlines proclaiming the fact that two men landed at New York City last night after setting a new record for going around the world in twenty-three days, fifteen hours and eight seconds. After reading this the millions probably turned to look at the weather report and to find out who was yesterday's ball game.

The various records set for going around the world tell a story of human progress. But there is one difference between the record set by Magellan and the record just established by Capt. Charles E. D. Collier and John Henry Mears that is far more interesting than the mere difference in time. When Magellan completed his cruise, he had done something that had never been done before. There may have been those who thought that it would be done again, but the horizon of their hopes did not extend beyond their visualization of how fast ships, propelled by the wind, might sail. They may have thought that some day there would be faster ships, fewer stops en route and winds that held true and strong. But that was all. Today the record set by Capt. Collier and Mr. Mears is of passing interest, for those who read of it know that a few years hence it will have become almost as archaic as the record set by Magellan.

First there were sailing ships, then steamships and trains, then steamships, airplanes and motor cars, then steamers and an airplane alone, and tomorrow there will be faster and stronger planes, that stop only for fuel, or dirigible airplanes that do not have to stop for fuel, soaring high in their race against time of all earthly things. The record has been lowered and the horizon for future records has extended beyond the sight but not the understanding of man.

Two years ago Edward S. Evans and Linton Wells set a new record of twenty-eight days and fourteen hours, which now has been lowered by nearly five days. Evans and Wells used steamship, motor car and airplane. Collier and Mears used only steamer and plane. There will doubtless be another record soon, made by plane alone. And that will stand only until it is soon broken by aircraft, aiming not at speed alone, but at speed without a stop.—Washington Star.

Dinner Stories.

Wife, in telegram from a spa—"In four weeks I have reduced my weight by half. How long shall I stay?"

Husband, wiring back—"Another four weeks."

Two young actresses were talking about a third.

"Do you really think she's popular?" asked one.

"Popular?" sneered the other. "Why the longest run she ever had was in her stocking."

"I want some golf balls for a gentleman, please."

"Certainly, madam. What sort does he like?"

"Well, the only time I saw him play he used a small white ball. But I can not say I gathered the impression that he exactly liked it."

Salesman, to old lady buying goldfish—"These small ones are a shilling each and the larger one's half a crown."

Lady—"Which do you think would be the better company for me?"

"Who was this fellow Pan?"

"Why, he was half man and half goat."

"Ah, a husband!"

First Lady—"She ought to take care of that cough at her. I remember she told me once or twice she had a cold of throat trouble."

Second Lady—"Ay, but 'twasn't the same sort. 'E was 'anged."

"Since I bought a car I don't have to walk to the bank to make any deposits."

"You drive there, eh?"

A Scientific Watch-Tower.

BY GARRETT P. SERVICES.

On the Pic du Midi, in the heart of the High Pyrenees, at a height of 9,400 feet above sea level, the old observatory established by General Narbonne fifty years ago, and which had fallen into a state of decay, has been restored and now promises to become one of the world's most important astronomical and meteorological stations. In 1922 a slide carried away a part of the terrace on which the observatory stood, but the damage thus inflicted has been restored and a recurrence of the disaster averted.

The work of restoration has been long and arduous because of the difficulties of access to the peak, which is not free from snow except during the three hottest months of the year. The upper part can not be surmounted by automobiles, and all the materials and supplies have had to be transported over the hardest part of the ascent, on backs of mules. But in spite of the lack of facilities for traffic with the lower world, the personnel of the observatory do not suffer either from want of provisions or ordinary comforts, or from any long continued interference with their work by storms. The snow makes climbing difficult, but when it has once been deposited from the atmosphere upon the rocks of the peak it leaves the upper air clear and the sky star-strewn in a manner unknown amid the mists and dust of the valleys and lowlands. The Pic du Midi has not the serene air of Mount Wilson whose Pacific climate makes a paradise for astronomers, but it has the advantage of much greater elevation, while for meteorological observations it is much superior.

Its telescopic equipment, at present, is trifling in comparison with that of our giant Californian observatories, but yet it is by no means unimportant. It consists of a Foucault reflector of about twenty inches aperture and a refractor of eight inches. There is an electric installation supplied by batteries of accumulators. There is not only a telephone line between the peak and the town of Bagneres de Bigorre, but also a radio-telephone whose field of communication ranges over all the southwest of France.

Among the various scientific investigations to be carried on, in addition to astronomical observations and the regular study of the weather, there is provision for researches on atmospheric electricity, electric storms, lightning and terrestrial magnetism. Special attention will be given to investigations of the formation of snow, and the beginning and development of glaciers. There are no very extensive glaciers in the Pyrenees, but the very fact of their relative smallness and rapid changes may be advantageous for such study. The Pyrenees, especially on the French side, are famous for their vegetation. A green mantle creeps up their flanks and covers even the summits of a large part of the great range, only a few peaks rising completely out of the realm of the plants, although several attain the elevation of ten to eleven thousand feet while the passes of the Pyrenees average at least as high as those of the Alps. The trees, shrubs, flowers and grasses of these remarkable mountains are in many ways peculiar, while they also harbor interesting varieties of animal life. For this reason one of the departments of research at the Pic du Midi observatory station will be devoted to botany and biological study.

Never to be disregarded are the charms and beauties and subtleties of the Pyrenees for the eyes of all lovers of picturesque nature. And these are enhanced by the historic memories, legends and traditions and archaeological discoveries which carry the story back through Moorish and Gothic and Roman and Celtic ages into the depths of prehistory, and amidst the morning mists of the Old Stone and the later Stone ages.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Dante and Beatrice.

BY COLETTE DOUGLASS.

One of the sweetest romances that has been handed down through the ages to us, is that of Dante and Beatrice, whom he has referred to as "The Bride of his soul."

Dante's first meeting with Beatrice Portinari was when they were both about nine years old. A wide social gulf separated them and it is doubtful that either of them was aware of the other's existence. However, it is directly due to her influence on the impressionable boy that we owe the beauty of his writings, for she it was who inspired him. Her picture was forever in his heart, and even when she married, Dante still retained his deep love for her.

After his childhood meeting with Beatrice—the name which he bestowed upon her—he never saw her again until after he had returned from the university, and then it was to him and her that he dedicated his masterpiece, the "Divine Comedy." Little did the fair Beatrice dream that the poet who wrote for her would bring her immortality, but his love for her was an open secret. He proclaimed it from the houseposts in song and verse, and one wonders what these two young things felt and thought. We know how Dante felt, but there is no record of Beatrice returning the affection which he bestowed on her. Probably she took his adoration as a tribute to her beauty and charm, but nevertheless she remained faithful to her elderly husband.

When she was twenty-five years of age, she was stricken with the plague and died, leaving Dante inconsolable and despairing Dante. Thereafter he constantly referred to her as the "bride of his soul." However, from his deep grief rose the magnificent monument that has and will continue to perpetuate Dante's name—"The Divine Comedy."

In 1922 Dante married Gemma, daughter of Manetto Donati, who bore him two sons. However, her name is never mentioned in any of Dante's writings, all his love and devotion being given to Beatrice.

When you stop to ponder over this love story, isn't it a wonderful thing? A love that never knew fulfillment, that never attained the heights of ecstasy, yet a love that was constant and faithful even unto death. It's a beautiful thing and a rare thing to find one such star blazing brightly down the paths of time and is truly an inspiration to any of us who may feel at some time or other that love is almost hopeless.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. G. MINTYRE.

New York, July 27.—Thoughts while strolling: That stretch of Fifth Avenue still sprinkled with diamond dust. The bus driver who looks like Montague Fox. One Kahn, Massachusetts, boy who made good in the city. Constable Collier with a griffin. The Metropolitan club. It looks grand is "Who's Who."

More modernistic whitewash in Saks windows. A priest comforting a distressed woman on the side lawn at St. Patrick's. George Creel, the "Uncle Henry" of Collier's. And husband of Blanche Bates. The legless beggar with the Boston dog that pulls him along in a cart.

Joe Humphries, the leather-lunged fight announcer. Those new hotels blazing with light at night, but practically empty. Women's heels are setting lower. There's a Gay Nineties touch—a bicycle rack. Boys with flowing ties who play piccolos in orchestras.

Box voyage fruit baskets $50. On the East Side you can open a fruit store for that. Those doll-faced simpering girls who dress like twins. And demurely practice the oldest profession. Venerable croquet players on way to Central park—each with a sun parasol.

Nothing so intimidating as a wild-eyed motorcycleist. A bowling alley opens next to a hotel. That's nice. The trunk store seems to be "selling out." The town is full of green shirts. Why do men with big feet wear small derbies pulled down to their ears?

And why are bow-legged men always running after street cars? Crooked stockings seem. Wait Rosner, the Capitol carriage leader. A man pushing a baby carriage. Just like they do in Brooklyn. Strike up the band—a taxi driver just told a fare he had plenty of change. Harry Reichentach, the silver-haired press agent.

A street hawk is selling colored clothes line. The "Brighton Bar Yard" movement arrives. Wonder what Columbus circle used to look like? The somber dignity surrounding every church—even those on Broadway. Who remembers when a telegram was a dispatch?

A gentleman in New Rochelle writes that in the Bronx there is a laundry sign reading: "Don't Kill the Wife. Let Our Man Go Your Dirty Work." I seem to remember something like that in Punch, but it's funny anyway.

Broadway's so-called moths do not always flutter back to the sewing frame. One of the well-known professional dancers was for years found where chandeliers blazed brightest. She was a toast of the town. About five years ago she married a rich young manufacturer in a small Middle West city. Broadway always expected her back. She does return now and then with her husband, makes the rounds of the night bazars, looks on, but seems bored, and departs early. Those who know say she is supremely happy in the limited small-town pleasures. She must play golf and dances now and then with her husband's friends at the country club. Her name was Joan Sawyer.

If a list could be furnished, it would surprise those living in Broadway's narrow little world how many have drunk deep of the White Way galaxy and found the taste bitter. In every small city there are several who know Broadway like the proverbial book. They have had their fun in the lighted canyon, but the idea of ever being drawn back to it makes them laugh right out loud. They are quite content to spend their evening rocking on the front porch and listening to the radio. They feel so much better in the morning.

The incurable Broadwayite—and Broadway in this sense is not a street but a state of consciousness—thinks he would be

Large Chautauqua Audience Enjoys Dramatic Offering in First Night's Program

"Smilin' Through" Presented by Bergmann Play Co. with Various Roles Capably Portrayed; Ernest Toy Trio and Dr. Landrith on Program Tonight

In spite of counter attractions last night a large audience of Chautauqua patrons gathered at the Garfield park grounds to witness "Smilin' Through," the second and last play given by the Bergmann Play Company in re-stated Chautauqua program.

"Smilin' Through," a fantastic comedy by Allan Langdon Martin, made the world famous and has been a successful play since its first presentation.

The scenes are laid in the Carteret garden at Dunstable, Eng., and deals with the fate of John Carteret, for Kenneth Wayne, sweetheart of Carteret's niece, Kathleen.

The first scene in the second act takes the plot back to the same garden 50 years previous and tells the love story of John Carteret and Moon-yon Claire, brought to a climax by Jeremiah Wayne, who accidentally

OBREGON SUPPORTERS IN HARMONY EFFORT

Representatives of Various Groups Approve Program; To Carry On Policies

Mexico City, July 27—Leaders of the Obregonista party were today making every effort to reconcile all its various factions into one harmonious group determined to carry on the policies of the assassinated President-elect, Alvaro Obregon.

Representatives of various groups of the party from all parts of the country met here last night and definitely approved this program of harmony. Deputy Aurelio Manrique, former governor of the state of San Luis Potosi, presided at the meeting.

As explained to the delegates by Deputy Antonio Diaz Soto Y Gama, Agrarian leader, the program calls for cooperation between President Calles and the other leaders of the Obregonista party and the elimination of all laborite officials from all government offices.

Calls for Just Place
The program also calls for the election of Obregonista party members exclusively to the incoming congress and for the designation of a man definitely identified with the policies of Obregon for provisional president.

Soto Y Gama struck the keynote of the meeting in his speech when he declared that Mexico "required peace—peace based on justice."

For the first time in the history of Mexican politics, a woman took a prominent place in the proceedings. This woman, a delegate of one of the factions closely allied with Soto Y Gama, was given the floor and roundly cheered when she rose to urge the adoption of the program.

MORONES ABANDON SHIP?
Reported to Be Enroute to Barcelona, Spain

Havana, July 27—Luis Morones, who resigned as secretary of commerce and industry in the Mexican cabinet following open charges by members of the Obregonista faction that he was implicated in the assassination of President-elect Obregon, is aboard a ship which will depart today, according to advices received here.

Morones is believed to have boarded a ship bound for Barcelona, Spain, at Vera Cruz, Mexico. The ship, the name of which was not mentioned, is said to be scheduled to stop here enroute.

Marion Parrot of Discriminating Taste Insists on Use of Cream in His Coffee

NONE of this "Folly wants a crack" stuff and pirate cussing for Pete! He is above such common parrot verbiage for Pete, more than anything else, is an "aerobically" parrot. This bird of brilliant plumage, probably the best-known parrot in Marion, has his abode with the undertaking firm of C. E. Curtis & Co., 207 E. Center st. Pete was bought several years before the company moved from its old location into the new funeral home and at that time he had reached the age of approximately six months.

Now he is almost eight years old, and his feathers are growing brighter every year. Of a green that can not be detected when he's in a tree, his plumage is brightened with brilliant splashes of yellow, and flecks of scarlet red.

This scion of an ancient line of birds is quite particular that his breakfast be of toast or coffee, and it is imperative that cream be put in the coffee before breakfast is served. Pete is as dainty with his place of toast and cup of coffee as any one could be. At the time he was "interviewed" recently, Pete was indulging in an early afternoon lunch of peanuts.

Not Talkative
His keepers say that Pete rarely says a word, wisely taking in everything that goes on, but refraining from any comment. This a wise bird who follows this rule in these scolding days of politics. What Pete lacks in conversation he makes up in acrobatics.

Especially on rainy days does Pete revel in acrobatics and baths. When it rains he is taken from his cage and set on the pipe bordering the Curtis funeral home sidewalk. Here he goes through every manner of queer stunt, chattering and scolding all the while.

It is on rainy days too, that he bathes. Pete's bad fault is that he does not believe that cleanliness is next to godliness. Neither dust nor water appeals to the bird, and nothing but rain, or a forced application of a brush and water can induce him to clean up. He doesn't mind these ablutions, though, and takes it all without protest.

Pete's gala days were before the Curtis company moved from its former location across from the old Star building. Pete was in ecstasies of delight when the noisy newboys gathered in front of the office before they started on their route.

Pete sits in his cage most of the time, eating, chattering, and climbing from the bars and swings suspended in it.

Was An Adventurer
Once he made an expedition to the top of a pear tree back of the home and the only way his anxious pursuers ever found him was by discovering a pile of nicked pears around the base.
